WAR SUMMARY OF THE LATEST EVENTS

After two weeks of an almost uninterrupted advance, save for the defeat in front of Douaumont on Saturday, Feb. 26th, the Germans at Verdun have been sharply checked. The French Wednesday launched a strong counter-attack on the west bank of the Meuse and drove the Germans out of the greater part of the Corbeaux Wood, which they had occupied on Tuesday after a stiff fight. The enemy now holds only a small strip at the eastern extremity of the wood. The Germans, it is stated, have reoccupied the Hardaumont redoubt, taken on Tuesday by the French, and are again heavily shelling the French positions on Douaumont.

In reporting Tuesday's capture of the French lines south of Forges and in the Corbeaux Wood, Berlin announced Wednesday that 58 French officers and 3,277 men had been taken prisoners and ten cannon captured, and that the greater part of the occupants of the captured trenches had been killed during the action. The midnight French official report, describing Wednesday's successful French counter-attack, says that it was made in face of a German attempt to advance west of the Meuse. The centre of the German pressure was at Bethincourt, where large forces were used unsuccessfully. The French guns did much towards repelling this attack, and the enemy's losses must have been heavy. On the east side of the river, in the Douaumont region, the Germans were also unsuccessful in an attempt to break the French lines. On the whole, the advantage in the day's operations was distinctly with the French, who, in addition to holding their own around Verdun, sent out 16 aeroplanes, which dropped 124 shells on the Metz-Sablons railway station, where there were several trains. They also recaptured some trenches near Sennois in Alsace taken by the Ger-

MARCH SESSION

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID

Council met on Wednesday afternoon at 2 p.m.

Confirmed the minutes of the last day of the January session.

Heard Mr. Brooks, in reference to a grant to his ferry across Hay Bay. Granted Mr. Brooks $75.00 in aid of said ferry.

Heard a number of communications re Lennox and Addington Patriotic Fund.

Passed a resolution tendering the Patriotic Committee the warmest thanks of the council for their efficient handling of the patriotic funds.

Passed a by-law authorizing county to pay insurance on the soldiers whose policies have already been accepted by insurance companies.

Passed a by-law forming a Lennox and Addington Branch of the National Patriotic Fund with the members of the County Council as members with power to add to their numbers.

Passed a motion that any contribution to the National Patriotic Fund be raised in the same manner as the current expenditure.

Passed a motion to pay the Patriotic Fund $1800.00 per month for the next ten months.

Endeavors to minimize the German losses while the countryside is still covered with bodies must prove futile, for, no matter what the official statements may say, the wounded on their return to Germany will be in a position to tell the truth. A curious sidelight is thrown, by the researches of a Swiss statistician, upon the German habit of magnifying the losses of their foes and minimizing their own. On October 5th, referring to the recent great offensive of the Allies in Champagne and Artois, a German report stated that, "according to conservative estimates, the French losses in dead, wounded and prisoners were 150,000, the British losses 60,000. The German losses were not one-fifth of this number"—that is 42,000. The months intervening since October, says The Boston Transcript, have revealed the truth. German official Verlust-listen—lost lists—disclose to Colonel Feyler, Journal de Geneve, who patiently searched them, number dead 44,145; wounded, not including missing and very lightly wounded, 73,333. Official Allies lists of prisoners total operations was distinctly with the French, who, in addition to holding their own around Verdun, sent out 16 aeroplanes, which dropped 124 shells on the Metz-Sablons railway station, where there were several trains. They also recaptured some trenches near Seppois, in Alsace, taken by the Germans a month ago, and in the Champagne near Maisons de Champagne, which were captured three days ago.

Detailed statements are beginning to come in regarding the German losses in front of Verdun. Prisoners recently taken say that the battalions which took part in the infantry assaults lost on an average two-thirds of their strength. It is certain that the losses were so great as to horrify all who passed over the field of battle after the first assault on February 25th. It may have been because of the effect on his troops of the sight of thousands of unburied dead that the Crown Prince asked General Petain on Monday for a ten hours' armistice so that the bodies of the slain might be removed.

The Boston Postmaster, who revealed the truth. German official Verlust-listen—lost lists—disclose to Colonel Feyler, Journal de Geneve, who patiently searched them, number dead 44,145; wounded, not including missing and very lightly wounded, 73,333. Official Allies lists of prisoners total 23,955; German loss therefore, a minimum, 141,431 as against their conservative statement for the Allies of 210,000. Says Colonel Feyler: "For the battle of Artois-Champagne the official ratio was: British 4.3 wounded to one dead, French 4.8 wounded to one dead. There is no reason to believe the German ratio of dead to wounded was any less—say 4.5 wounded to one dead. The ratio acknowledged by German statements is 1.70 wounded to one dead. As the official statement by Germany—Oct. 5th—is shown to be false by their own loss lists, there is no reason to believe their later particulars. Their wounded certainly numbered 198,652. This brings their total loss to over 266,000; there is indeed ample official reason to believe it actually was 280,000." The fighting around Verdun has been far more deadly and prolonged than the struggle of October. The Germans are now putting into it the third lot of fresh troops brought up since it began, and as yet they have only forced a way through the outer defences of Verdun. Before they can pierce the inner defences their losses will be enormously greater than they have been. The Russians have captured the town of Riza, on the Black Sea, 25 miles east of Trebizond, and the town of Sennah, north of Kermanshah, in Persia. They are hard on the heels of the retreating Turks on the Black Sea coast, and the occupation of Trebizond is only a matter now of a very few days. When it falls Turkish Armenia will be practically all under Russian occupation, and the Russians will be able to advance into Asia Minor without leaving any dangerous spots behind them.

There is no news concerning the British operations on the Tigris, but a despatch made public by the War Office in London Wednesday states that at Nasriyeh, on the Euphrates, west of Kurna, on February 22nd an Arab force was dispersed with heavy casualties by a British punitive column, which sustained no losses. The Arabs by this time have no doubt heard of Erzerum. They will soon be flocking into the British camps in Mesopotamia telling what a bad lot the Turks have been, and how glad they are to be rid of them.

Dutch reports describe with some particularity a German fleet which was at sea off the coast of Holland on Monday. One report speaks of 29 warships, including battleships, small cruisers and destroyers. Another of "50 big warships," followed by a fleet of trawlers and submarines and accompanied by Zeppelins. Five large cruisers of unknown nationality passed on Monday morning the spot where the Germans were seen on Monday afternoon. Col. Winston Churchill may have had inside information when on Tuesday he spoke of a possible German naval raid on the British coast.

On their European front the Russians are meeting all the moves of the enemy with quiet confidence. They have repulsed the Germans in the Illoukst region of the Dwina. "In the Upper Stripa region," an official Petrograd report says, "we permitted a strong body of the enemy to approach within fifty paces of our trenches without firing a single shot and then dispersed them with our fire."

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the National Sanitarium Association asking for a grant. Ordered laid on the table until the estimates are prepared.

From the London Concrete Machinery Co. in reference to concrete mixers, etc.

Referred to Streets Committee to look over.

From the Ontario Municipal Association accompanied by a copy of the work done by that Association. Filed.

From the Monetary Times, asking the corporation to advertise their bonds, etc., in their publication. Filed.

From J. W. Robinson, President of the Lennox and Addington Motor League. The communication asked the council to pass a resolution, to be sent to the Ontario Government, favoring legislation for an exchange of motor licenses between the United States and Canada. That is that motor tourists, travelling through Ontario, would not be compelled to secure an Ontario License, and motor tourists going from Ontario into the United States would not have to secure an American license.

On motion of Councillors Denison and Graham, a favorable expression was secured from the council, and the clerk was instructed to draft a resolution in accordance with Mr. Robinson's communication and forward same to the Ontario Government.

The report of the Finance Committee was adopted.

The report of the Fire Water and Light Committee was adopted.

The report of the Town Property Committee was adopted.

Five-Passenger Touring Car—Model 75

Price $850

F. O. B., TORONTO.

Its Completeness Won Instant Success

Never before has any model been such a complete and instantaneous success.

Small wonder, really.

For never before has there been so complete a car at anywhere near so low a price.

It stands out alone—boldly—conspicuously—unapproached—a powerful five passenger touring car COMPLETE for only $850.

Note that word "complete."

That means electric starter and electric lights, electric horn, magnetic speedometer—in fact every necessary item. Nothing is lacking. There are NO extras to buy.

Note that the motor is the very latest EN BLOC design—the last word in fine engineering.

Note that the tires are four inch size. Many cars costing more have smaller tires.

Note that the rear springs are the famous cantilever type. Many bigger more expensive cars are nowhere near as easy riding.

Note the headlight dimmers—the electric control buttons on steering column—dismountable rims and one man top—all big features—high-priced-car features.

And it is a perfect beauty—snappy, stylish, speedy.

No wonder there's a rush to possess the car the world has been waiting for.

But that means quicker action on your part in order to get a prompt delivery.

Don't delay—get your order in to-day.

Remember it comes complete—only $850.

MOEWE REACHES PORT.

Daring German Raider Gets Home With Gold and Prisoners.

BERLIN, March 7.—Official an- nouncement was made here yesterday that the German cruiser Moewe arrived yesterday in "some" German port (Wilhelmshaven). She had on board a large number of British pris- oners and $200,000 in gold bars. The announcement says fifteen vessels were sunk by the Moewe, which also laid mines at several points. One of these mines, it is said, sank the British battleship King Edward VII. The statement says:

"The naval general staff states that the Moewe, Commander Bur- grave, Count Dohna-Schlodien, after a successful cruise lasting several months, arrived to-day at 'some' home port with four British officers, 29 British marines and sailors, 266 men of crews of enemy steamers, among them 103 Indians, as prison- ers, and one million marks in gold bars.

"The vessel brought up the follow- ing enemy steamers, the greater part of which were sent as prizes to neu- tral ports: The British steamships Corbridge, 3,687 tons; Author, 3,496 tons; Trader, 3,608 tons; Ariadne, 3,035 tons; Dromonby, 3,627 tons; Farrington, 3,146 tons; Clan Mac- Tavish, 5,816 tons; Appam, 7,781 tons; Western, 3,300 tons; Herare, 3,335 tons; Flamenco, 4,629 tons; Saxon Prince, 3,471 tons; the sailing vessel Edinburgh, 1,473 tons; the French steamer Maroni, 3,109 tons, and the Belgian steamship Luxem- burg, 4,322 tons.

"At several points on enemy coast the Moewe also laid out mines, to which, among others, the battleship King Edward VII. fell victim."

Count von Dohna, the Moewe's commander, has been awarded the Iron Cross of the first class and the members of the crew have received the Iron Cross of the second class. Count von Dohna has been ordered to meet Emperor William at head- quarters.

RIOTS IN CONSTANTINOPLE.

German Troops Suppress Rising of Women in Turk Capital.

ODESSA, Russia, March 7.—It is reported from Constantinople that Turkish women broke into the rail- way yards, whence troop trains were about to leave, shouting protests against sending the men "to go to their death." They threw themselves on the rails in front of the trains. The authorities refrained from using force to remove them, these advices say, fearing a mutiny among the sol- diers. The men were taken from the cars, but later were sent off secretly by night.

It is also reported that the Turk- ish general staff declined to sum- mon before a court-martial Kiamil Pasha, commander of the Turkish army in the Caucasus, on account of certain disclosures which might be made. Consequently the commander will receive an honorable discharge.

These reports say further that the people of Constantinople were led to believe that the German army had achieved a much greater victory at Verdun than was actually gained, and that when the facts were ascer- tained rioting occurred. It is stated German troops suppressed the riot- ing.

SLAVS NEAR TREBIZOND

Grand Duke's Army Occupies Two More Towns.

Atina is Entered by Troops Landed From Transports on the Black Sea Under Cover of Fire From the Fleet—Advance Guard Pursuing the Enemy Takes Maprava —Russians Took Rich Spoils at Bitlis.

PETROGRAD, March 7.—The Russians have won yet another im- portant victory over the Turks. On March 4 troops landed from trans- ports under the cover of fire from the fleet and occupied the town of Atina, on the Black Sea coast to the east of Trebizond. Deploying rapid- ly southward, they forced the Turks to evacuate their positions.

Detachments of the Czar's troops, continuing the pursuit, occupied the village of Maprava, midway between Atina and Riza, the morning of the 5th.

The following official communica- tion regarding the capture of Bitlis was issued by the War Office:

"Details of the capture of Bitlis show that our troops attacked the po- sition without firing a shot. The at- tack was made at night during a snowstorm. About 3 o'clock in the morning a bayonet charge was order- ed, and the Turks after a desperate resistance were dislodged. The Turk- ish artillery position was stormed after hand-to-hand fighting, as the result of which the defenders, who fought with the greatest desperation, were all killed.

"On the position and in pursuit of the enemy we captured 20 guns of the latest Krupp type, all of which were in good condition. We also captured on the positions a huge quantity of gun and rifle cartridges, and in Bitlis itself a large depot of artillery munitions. During the pur- suit numerous Turks were sabred. The number of prisoners has in- creased, and includes 40 officers."

Two Turkish divisions, reinforced by troops that had fled from Erzer- um, are the forces that had been op- erating against the Russians on the line running through Mush, Bitlis, and Van.

With the occupation of Bitlis, it is pointed out the entire Van region passes under the control of the Rus- sians, while the Russian success sepa- rates the two Turkish forces oper-

THE IRON MAIDEN.

Her Dread Embrace Meant Cruel and Certain Death.

In an ancient tower at Nuremberg a strange figure is shown to visitors. It is called the Elserne Jungfrau (Iron Maiden) because it looks like a woman dressed in rusty iron. At about the waist are two handles by means of which the front of the figure is opened on hinges, like two doors, from the chin down, leaving the face unsep- arated.

The heavy and massive doors bristle inside with spikes as sharp as dag- gers, about twenty of which point in- ward toward the chest and two of which, longer than the others, are fixed inside the face behind the eyes.

The Elserne Jungfrau was an instru- ment of execution reserved for shame- less women. When one of these was condemned to death she was placed in- side the figure, and the doors were closed. This forced the spikes into her vital organs and through her eyes into her brain. Death was quick or slow, according to the speed with which the doors were closed.

The base of the figure is a trapdoor. When the doors were opened and the victim freed from the spikes the trap- door was sprung and her body dropped through a deep hole into a torrent that still flows under the castle. A tip of a few pfennigs will have the hole lighted with electric lamps, and the visitor can look down and see the dark water, thus completing the tragedy in his im- agination.—New York World.

SNAILS AS FOOD.

They Are as Nourishing as Calf's Foot Jelly and Easy to Raise.

"All snails are edible and nutritious," says Canon Horsley in a book on Brit- ish land and fresh water mollusks. He goes on to say that even the com- mon or garden snail, though insipid, is as nourishing as calf's foot jelly.

There is a large white shelled snail called Helix pomatia that is common- ly eaten by connoisseurs in the south of England, while all over France, It- aly and Spain several species are used as food. In France there are many snail farms which yield a good profit to their owners. In the French and Italian quarters of New York snails may be brought either alive or cooked, and at most of the French restaurants they are served, "escargots farcis" be- ing the most usual form of the dish.

BREWSTER ELECTED.

Liberal Leader in B. C. Defeats Pro- vincial Treasurer Flumerfelt.

VICTORIA, March 7.—The elect- ors of Victoria Saturday elected Har- lan Carey Brewster to represent them in the Legislature, and defeat- ed Hon. Alfred C. Mr. Brewster, the victor in Satur- day's fight, is the leader of the Lib- eral party in British Columbia. He came to the coast from New Brun- swick, his native Province, in 1906, and has since then been actively in- terested in the fishing business.

Zeppelins Visit England.

LONDON, March 7.—A Zeppelin raid took place Sunday night, when two hostile airships crossed over the north-east coast of England. The official statement announcing the raid gives no information as to the damage done.

"At the time of this report," the statement continues, "their move- ments have not been clearly defined. Some bombs were dropped, which fell into the sea near the short, but information is not yet available as to whether any damage was done on land. A further communication will be issued later."

Germans Imprison Belgian Patriots.

AMSTERDAM, March 7. — The Handelsblad says that the German court-martial in Brussels has sen- tenced three more Belgians, one of whom was a woman, to imprisonment with hard labor. Marguerite Blan- kaert was sentenced to prison for life for treasonable acts against the Ger- man administration; a former police- man named Alexander Daume to two years for issuing false passports, and Gustaaf Minenclet to one year for hiding soldiers.

Russians Took Terrible Revenge.

LONDON, March 7.—The Russian soldiers at Bitlis, according to a Pe- trograd despatch to The Morning Post, took a terrible revenge on the Turkish troops for the cruelty which the Turks were alleged to have prac- tised toward the Armenians in that district. The correspondent says:

"A terrible slaughter followed the capture of the Turkish position at Bitlis. The Russian troops had wit- nessed at Van, Mush, and many other places an appalling sight, the mas- sacre, namely, by Turkish fanatics of tens of thousands of Armenian Chris- tian men, women, and children. It was unlikely after such deeds, that any quarter should be given. The colossal killing completed the de- struction of the Turkish third army."

ENVER PASHA ATTACKED.

Turkish War Minister is Said to Be in a Critical Condition.

LONDON, March 7.—Rumors are recurrent of internal trouble in Tur- key and of a movement towards peace. As the reports mainly eman- ate from Rome and Athens, they must for the resent be regarded at least as doubtful.

The Athens correspondent of the Daily Mail, referring to a reported attempt to assassinate Enver Pasha, says it is stated that the Minister of War was gravely wounded, and that his condition is critical.

An Athens despatch to Reuter's Telegram Company says:

"Advices from a diplomatic source in Constantinople are to the effect that an attempt has been made to assassinate Enver Pasha, the War Minister, who was wounded. The Duke of Mecklenburg, 'in view of the gravity of the situation,' has tele- graphed the German Emperor urging him to send reinforcements to Con- stantinople."

Snails are easy to raise in large quanti- ties. They need lime for making their shells, but they do not have to be fed, as they can find their own food, which is exclusively the leaves of many plants. They are most delicious when properly prepared and cooked and, as Canon Horsley says, as nour- ishing as calf's foot jelly.

PEEL BYE-ELECTION.

LOWE, (LIBERAL), DEFEATED FALLIS, CONSERVATIVE, BY 305. FALLIS MAJORITY, 1914—627.

Although it is recognized, as Mr. Rowell says, that the result in Peel was a victory for the people, rather than a victory simply for party, yet it is a prevalent opinion widely expressed on the streets and in the clubs today, that the Hearst Government is seriously effected. They could have prevented Fallis running at all as their representative if they had cared to do so, and could have denounced him, as Sir Robert Borden at Ottawa read De Witt Foster and Garland out of the Conservative party.

Instead of that, they not only did not say anything against him, but according to Mr. Fallis and Mr. Blain, four or five Cabinet Ministers would have been glad to take places on the platform beside Mr. Fallis, had they been asked to do so.

The chief complaint against the Government is their quality of weakness in the matter. The World, (Conservative), says: "The Ontario Ministers are to be congratulated upon a lucky escape. They will have to bear some reproach for not taking a more active part on the right side, but we do not think their hearts were in the acquiescence which appears to have been compelled from them by Mr. Fallis and his supporters."

"Compelled from them by Mr. Fallis and his supporters!"

This is surely the severest kind of indictment against any government, to say that they were compelled by Mr. Fallis or anybody else, to give him their support. Where has the strength of mind and decision of the Ontario Government itself gone to?

As a matter of fact, according to their own men, one of the chief characteristics of the present Ontario Government is their failure to make decisions. Even Mr. Hearst himself, in his famous remark, has said that a "zig zag" course is often the best one to pursue.

This is quite in line with the Toronto World's criticism levelled against the Government a short time ago, when it accused it of being a "wibbly wobbly" government.

VERDUN SCRAPPED AS FORTRESS MONTHS AGO

PARIS, Feb. 27.—The fight for the possession of Verdun goes on with increasing violence, multiplying the dead and wounded to a point that the losses have got beyond calculation.

It is possible to verify how many reinforcements the Germans have brought up, but the military critics believe that of the 300,000 men that began the attack few will be left at the end of the first fighting.

Verdun, the object of all this sacrifice, is now nothing but "an ancient fortress," according to authoritative information, and if the Germans take it they will find it but an empty shell. Fort Douaumont, before which such a sacrifice in lives has been made by its assailants, holds neither cannon nor garrison. It is six months since that the French, putting into practice the lessons of the war showing that fortresses are more vulner-

PEOPLES OF THE WORLD.

The Aryan or White Race and Its Numerous Divisions.

The division of the earth's population according to race is as follows: Indo-Germanic or Aryan race (white), occupying Europe, America, Persia, India and Australia, about 775,000,000; Mongolian or Turanian (yellow and brown), living in Asia, about 682,000,000; Semitic (white), living in Asia, Arabia, etc., about 65,000,000; negro and Bantu (black), found in Africa, about 150,000,000; Malay and Polynesian (brown), inhabiting Australasia, about 35,000,000; American (Indian red), found in North and South America, number, including halfbreeds, about 25,000,000.

The Slavs are one of the chief divisions of the Aryan race. They are divided, as a race, into two leading families, the eastern and western Slavs. The eastern Slavs comprise the Russians (Great Russians, Little Russians and White Russians); Bulgarians, Serbo-Croats, including the Servians and Montenegrins, and Slovenes in Carinthia, Carniola and part of Syria. The western Slav family is divided into the Poles, in Russia, Austria and Prussia, and the Kassubes; the Czechs, or Bohemians, and the Moravians, with the Slovaks in Hungary, and the Lusatian Wends or Sarbs in Saxony and Prussia. The theory is that their original home was in Volhynia and White Russia.

VICTIMS OF NIAGARA.

Water Birds Go to Sleep and Are Swept Over the Falls.

Swimming too near the brink of the falls, hundreds of water birds, even swans, ducks and geese, go over Niagara falls to their death each year in the migratory season. So many birds pay the penalty for their daring each year that bird lovers on both the American and Canadian sides of the falls are considering steps to lessen the annual toll of the feathered life.

Since a majority of the victims are claimed in the night, the theory is advanced that the birds go to sleep while swimming and don't wake up until the rapids have carried them over the danger line. Usually they are killed outright in the fall. Sometimes they are only stunned and are picked out of the river below the falls and sold for food.

In 1912, so Ernest Harold Baynes, the naturalist, relates, 140 whistling swans went over Horseshoe falls. Boys and men fished the birds out, knocked them on the head and sold them.

"James Savage of Buffalo," Mr. Baynes says, "with some friends once saved a flock of swans by chasing them in a power boat and making them fly away just before nightfall. It was a daring thing for these men to do, for if by any chance the engine had become disabled nothing could have prevented their going over the falls."

CURIOUS ANDORRA

Oldest, Smallest and Strangest of All Republics.

A PATCH IN THE PYRENEES.

This Tiny Nation, Where All Men Are Really Equal, Has Never Produced a Page of Literature, a Bar of Music, a Painting Nor a Leader of Men.

For 1,100 years, since its foundation as a republic in 805 (and no one knows for how many centuries before that), curious little Andorra has gone its own strange way utterly oblivious to the progress of the other nations of Europe. It has its own idea of the meaning of life, and it lives according to that. A traveler entering the republic today will find it exactly as it was 1,000 years ago.

It is a republic which has never achieved anything in its long and vague history; a republic which has never produced a page of literature nor a bar of music nor a painting; a republic which has never had a place in the councils of Europe and has never asked for one; a nation which has never produced an ambitious man.

Andorra consists of six counties and boasts about a dozen towns. Its entire population is 5,000 souls.

The chief occupation of the people of Andorra is cattle raising, and thousands upon thousands of cows may be seen browsing in the rich pastures, yet it has never occurred to Andorrans to milk these cows, and butter and milk are unknown in the republic. Dairy products are nonexistent. The only cheese made is that from the milk of sheep. Visitors find it impossible to procure milk or cream for their coffee. Andorrans themselves use brandy instead and think it is better than anything else in coffee.

In 805 Louis the Debonair laid siege to the city of Urgel, which is to the south of Andorra. The Andorrans, led by Marc Almugaver, took up arms to aid the French, and for their assistance Louis gave them a charter and permitted them to be self governing.

As it now exists it is the smallest republic in the world. It is situated in the Pyrenees between France and Spain. It is about eighteen miles wide and sixteen miles long from north to south. It is difficult of access, as there is not a single railroad running through or near it.

Its capital is Andorra la Viella, with a population of 500 and containing the Casa de la Vall, or house of representatives. This is a large sixteenth century building at the extremity of the town, overlooking the valley toward Spain. It is parliament house, town hall, school, palace of justice and hotel for the councilors all in one. It is also used as a temporary prison in the rare cases when a prison is necessary. Crime in Andorra is practically unknown. The only Andorrans suffering imprisonment are the smugglers of tobacco caught by the French or Spanish custom officers, and these are made by its assailants, holds neither cannon nor garrison. It is six months since that the French, putting into practice the lessons of the war showing that fortresses are more vulnerable than field works, "undressed" Verdun and all its provisions, arms and munitions, as well as those in the surrounding forts, were sent to the rear.

Eighty thousand men and several hundred cannon would have been the trophies of a conquest of the place in September, 1914.

To-day Verdun also is not a fortress. It has neither cannon nor garrison and has no provisions except for the current needs of the population. The value of the town itself is scarcely more than that of any one of the villages to the north taken by the Germans in the last six days, since it was never anything more than a military stronghold.

The attitude of the people and press in France is of calm confidence, which is heightened by pride in the heroic counter-attacks the French are making.

Silk Culture In Italy.

About 500 A. D. Persian monks first brought silkworm eggs concealed in the head of a hollow staff to Constantinople. Thence silk culture spread into Greece. A little later conquest carried it to Sicily. From there to Italy it was but a step. Soil, climate, people, suited it. The industry took root, grew, thrived and continues to this day.

The thrifty peasant manages to get silk and oil and wine from the same small holding. First he plants his mulberry trees, sixteen feet each way. Next he prunes the heads into a hollow cup and trains his vines all over them, and finally around the edge he gets a shelter of olive trees. So all seasons bring him labor and the reward of it.—London Standard.

Solubility of Gold.

Gold is one of the group of metals soluble only in that mixture of nitric and hydrochloric acids known as aqua regia. It has been found, however, that the presence of certain organic compounds renders gold soluble in hydrochloric acid. Thus a mixture of this acid and chloroform is found to be a solvent. Ethyl, or ordinary alcohol, methyl alcohol and amyl alcohol are among the other substances which give to hydrochloric acid the power of dissolving gold. The solution takes place slowly in the cold acid and more quickly on heating.

"Oh, oh," exclaimed impatient Mrs. Naggs, "I've bitten off the end of my tongue!"

"Well, I certainly feel sorry for myself," rejoined the heartless Naggs. "Hereafter there will be no end to your tongue."

How to Free the Place of Mice.
"When I was a boy our farm was alive with rats," a contributor tells in Farm and Fireside.

"We noticed the rats were eating the grain and drinking the water of a sitting hen in a corner of the barn. So when the hen hatched and was moved we put strychnine in the water and the first night killed twenty-three rats and the second nineteen.

"Besides this a good many more went away to die. The best way to get rid of rats is to make them accustomed to drink at one place and then poison the water."

Natural Life.

The legal phrase "natural life" is a sort of a puzzle to some people, who wonder if the law recognizes any "unnatural life." It does not, but the old common law did recognize an unnatural death as well as a natural one. When a man or woman takes the monastic vow people still speak of it as "leaving the world." In mediaeval times that was considered a form of death, and the phrase "natural life" came into use to describe an existence terminated by the grave, not by the convent or the abbey.—New York Mail.

The Giant Bible.

There is in the Royal library at Stockholm among other curiosities a manuscript work known as the giant Bible on account of its extraordinary dimensions. It measures 90 centimeters in length and is 50 centimeters in breadth—that is, about 35 by 19 inches. It requires three men to lift it. There are 300 pages, but seven have been lost. The parchment of which the book is composed required the skins of 160 asses. There are two columns on each page, and the book contains the Old and New Testaments, with extracts from Josephus. The initial letters are illuminated. The binding is of oak, four and one-half centimeters in thickness.

When Fashions Lasted For Years.

In times past a fashion lasted with slight modifications for years. Much the same fashion continued through the long reign of Louis XIV. and another through that of Louis XV., while the ladies of the middle ages never thought of varying their costumes. As for the Greeks and the Romans, generation succeeded generation with little change in female dress, and yet all these ladies of the past were more artistically dressed than those of today. Many no doubt spent more than they could afford, but when they had a costly dress they kept it and did not throw it away to replace it with another.—London Truth.

Delhi's Iron Pillar.

At Delhi there still exists an iron pillar fifty feet high and sixteen inches in diameter, made of fifty pound blooms welded together. This pillar, it is suggested, may be regarded as the doyen among products of the heavy iron industry.

Shary. Crime in Andorra is practically unknown. The only Andorrans suffering imprisonment are the smugglers of tobacco caught by the French or Spanish custom officers, and these are not looked upon as malefactors by their fellow citizens. Smuggling is regarded as a legitimate trade.

There is no police department and no police. Every citizen has the power to arrest, but this privilege is rarely used.

The territory was once densely wooded and is said to derive its name from the Moorish Aldarra, "the place thick with trees," but almost all the forests have been destroyed for fuel. The climate is generally cold, with very severe winters. The land is chiefly devoted to grazing for the numerous flocks and herds. But on the sheltered southern slopes it is carefully cultivated and produces grain, potatoes, fruit and tobacco. The local industries are of the most primitive kind and show little or no advance since the middle ages.

The only roads are bridle paths, with the exception of one municipal road connecting Andorra with the high road to Seo de Urgel and Manresa by way of the Balira valley.

Andorra is perhaps the truest democracy in the world. There is no nobility, and there is no class distinctions. All men are equal, not only in the eyes of the law but in the fullest sense of the word. The first citizen of the land, the president, is a farmer.

The republic is governed by twenty-four representatives, elected every four years. These representatives choose one of their number as president of the republic. His salary is 80 pesetas a year, or $20. Representatives get 10 pesetas, or $2.50 a year.

There is no such thing as poverty in Andorra. Every one has enough and has no desire for any more. Though they are hard drinkers, cases of intoxication are very rare. They speak their own language, Andorran, but French is taught at the schools. The school system is regulated by the French, and for this service Andorra pays annually to the French government 900 francs, or $180. From this it may be seen that taxation is very low. Doctors' services are absolutely free, and drug stores supply their patrons without charge.

Andorrans drink a great deal, and they are untidy in their personal appearance. But they are extremely honest, and theft is unknown in the country. Though descended from an ancient race, they are not good looking. Their faces are hard and uncomely, but that is because their lives are hard. The women work beside the men in the field, and feminine leisure and paint and powder are unknown.

SAMOA IS CHANGING.

South Sea Islanders Reaching Out For Up to Date Things.
The natives of Samoa are exhibiting
a marked inclination to imitate European manners. The beautiful siapos, hallowed by age long usage, are disappearing more and more, their place being taken by imported cotton cloth.
Women and girls like to put on greater quantities of European wearing apparel.
In the vicinity of Apia native Samoan house and kitchen utensils have been replaced by European articles of less worth. New foods are being introduced. Instead of taro, bananas and yams, the natives now eat rice, biscuits and bread and even drink coffee in the morning. The new foods, however, have but a limited number of consumers at present.
The native huts were formerly covered with thatches of sugar cane. Insects have destroyed the sugar cane plantations, and the natives now cover
their dwellings with corrugated iron,
which gives them much less protection
both against the sun during the day and against the cold at night. The Samoan house is disappearing, too, and its place is being taken by square
buildings of American pine.
The total native population of the Samoa group is about 42,000. There are 1,500 whites and half castes.-

TOOK THE ADVICE.
Then He Gave It A Practical Trial, and
It Worked.
Several years ago the president of one of the prominent railway corporations in America was making a stirring address to an audience of young men and dwelt with particular emphasis on the necessity of making a good appearance.
"When you are looking for work," he said, "be careful that you are presentable. If you have only $24 in the world spend $20 for a suit of clothes, $3.50 for a pair of shoes, 50 cents for a hair cut and shave. Then walk up to the job wherever it is and ask for it like a man."
This advice was greeted with great applause, and the railway president sat down amid a storm of cheers. The very next morning a dapper looking young fellow walked into the outer office of the orator and, handing a note to the clerk, said, "Please give this to the president." The note read as follows:
"I have paid $20 for this suit of clothes, $3.50 for a pair of shoes and 50 cents for a hair cut and a shave. I have walked from Harlem, and I would like a job as conductor on your road."
He got the job.
The Presidential Salute.
One explanation for the reason for adopting twenty-one guns as the presidential salute is that there might be maintained a uniformity in national salutes, Great Britain having in the distant past adopted twenty-one as the number for the royal salute. Of the many surmises as to why the number twenty-one was settled upon we mention two—first, that twenty-one was the number of years fixed by English law as the age of majority; second,
that seven was the original salute

LAW OLD AND NEW.

A Cynical View of Past Methods and Those of the Present.
Law, more especially criminal law,
has usually been an occult science. It is still the practice in Burma, we believe, to give two disputants candles of the same size, to be lighted at the same time. The one whose candle burns longest gets judgment against the other.
Less than 100 years ago a defendant
in an English criminal trial appealed to the ordeal of battle, and the court was more or less surprised to find that the ancient law on which he relied had never been repealed.
Determining a man's guilt or innocence by his ability to walk on hot plowshares or carry a hot iron or drink a poisonous decoction or by throwing him bound into water has been practiced for ages among many peoples. The medieval method of letting accused and accuser fight it out with weapons was common over Europe.
Our modest ancestors confessed their inability to find the merits of the cause and so relegated the whole affair to the intervention of supernatural agencies. The main difference is that we are less modest. Instead of the ordeal of battle or the old key and Bl-ble test or the "sieve witch," we have the defendant play a game of trip the court. If he can catch the judge put-

Goose and Michaelmas.

The English custom of eating goose on Michaelmas, Sept. 29, is said to date from the time of the great Queen Elizabeth.

Elizabeth had gone to call on Sir Neville Umfreyville. A messenger from the royal palace arrived and asked to see her. The queen allowed him to come into the dining room, where she was enjoying a slice of tender goose.
 The queen had just bitten into a delicious morsel when the messenger announced that the Spanish armada had been defeated. It happened to be Sept.
 29, Michaelmas, so future generations
 of English celebrate by eating goose,
 although the custom is much older and extends to other countries.—London Mail.

Halcyon Days.

The expression "halcyon days" originated with the ancient Sicilians. They firmly believed in an old legend that during the seven days preceding and the seven following the winter solstice
 —Dec. 21—the halcyon, or kingfisher,
 brooded over her young in a nest afloat
 on the surface of the water and that during these fourteen days the seas
 would be calm and safe for the mariner; hence the name "halcyon days," when, according to Milton, "birds of color sat brooding on the charmed wave."

Sulphur in New Zealand.

Sulphur deposits are found on White island, in the bay of Plenty, on the coast of the North island of New Zealand, about thirty miles from the mainland. This island, which covers about 600 acres, attains a height of 900 feet on one side and opens to the sea on the other. Its topography indicates an old crater, and the boiling lake on the island, which is one of the awe inspiring sights of New Zealand, is a further evidence of volcanism. After the New Zealand Sulphur company had spent $100,000 in preparation for mining sulphur in this locality a volcanic disturbance wrecked the camp and killed ten men.

Old Time Temperance.

Germany would seem to have given the lead in the matter of temperance societies. On Jan. 18, 1517, a man named Sigismund de Dietrichstein formed the Order of St. Christopher, and in 1600 the landgrave of Hesse formed the Order of Temperance, both societies aiming at the promotion of moderation. What moderation meant in bygone Germany may be gathered from the fact that members of the first order pledged themselves to abstain from toast drinking, while those of the second were pledged "not to drink
 more than seven glasses of liquor at a time and that not oftener than twice a day."

Flexibility of English.

English is not only, as Richard Jefferies asserted, the most expressive and flexible of tongues, but also, in Swinburne's opinion, the most musical.
 He proclaimed the lines—

Musie that gentler on the spirit lies
 Than tired eyelids upon tired eyes to be unmatched for melody in any language. And few would venture to contradict such a master of music and tongues. But surely French ranks next on the roll of languages. For clearness of diction it is unrivaled, and, thanks to its abundance of vowels (close on one for every consonant), it flows rhythmically from the tongue.

Dr. C. C. James, the Agricultural Commissioner of the Dominion Government, has, by a circular dated December 4th, 1915, recommended that the best means of giving laboratory instruction in the sciences underlying farming and practical instruction in soil cultivation, production and handling of crops, and raising and care of live stock, is to have an experimental farm and a school or college of agriculture in connection therewith in several districts of the Province, and

Whereas we believe that there is but one agricultural college in Ontario undertaking work of this kind, namely, in the city of Guelph, and

Whereas there is no experimental farm or agricultural college reasonably convenient to the agricultural community in the eastern portion of the Province, and

Whereas the district in and about the town of Napanee is very suitably situated in respect to the extent and variety of soil and is most readily accessible for students for the whole district both east and west of Napanee and also to the north, and

Whereas the Municipal Council of the Town of Napanee is of the opinion that an experimental farm and college of agriculture located at or near the Town of Napanee is very desirable for the purposes set out in the said circular of Dr. James,

Now therefore be it Resolved that the Ontario Government be memorialized to locate an experimental farm and agricultural college at or near the Town of Napanee and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Hon., the Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, to T. G. Carscallen and W. D. Black, the members respectively for Lennox and Addington and also a copy to G. B. Curran, the district representative of the Department of Agriculture for the County of Lennox and Addington. Carried.

TOWN COUNCIL

whole family were stopping at the home of a Mr. Thompson, on Centre Street, and were suffering from typhoid fever. The mother and one daughter had been sent to the Kingston General Hospital, and the father and other girl had nearly recovered.
Mr. Thompson asked to be paid for his trouble the sum of $13.25, and after inquiring into the case the committee recommended payment of the amount.

Report adopted.

A By-Law appointing chief of Police F. W. Barrett, Truant officer for the Town of Napanee was passed.

A By-Law authorizing the adoption of an official seal for the Corporation of the Town of Napanee was passed.

Mayor G. F. Rutan gave a short and interesting review of his recent trip to Ottawa in connection with matters pertaining to conservation
of the water privileges of Ontario.
He also presented his account for expenses of his trip, $19.50.

On motion of Reeve Osborne and Coun. Paul, the verbal report of Mayor Rutan was adopted and the account ordered paid.

Dr. G. H. Cowan, M. O. H., addressed the Council on the question of "ice and milk." He stated that under the statutes he was empowered to issue licenses for cutting ice, said
ice to be used for cooling purposes only. Samples of ice had been taken from the river near the steamboat
docks, and further down the river,
and after a thorough test both samples had been found to be of equal purity, there being practically no difference. He stated that water when frozen, loses to a large extent any danger of contamination when used solely for cooling purposes. After the tests had been made licenses had been granted for the cutting of ice which was intended to be used by the citizens for cooling purposes only.

In reference to the milk question he stated he had made tests of the milk offered for sale in town, and had found that the samples tested from 3.1 to 3.3 butter fat, which he considered good milk. An all important fact for the consumers of milk is the character of the cows from which the milk is taken, and also as to how they are kept. As far as possible the Board of Health ought to be kept informed with the names of the parties who daily furnish the milk to the milk vendors. Certainly one of the main causes of milk impurities is dirty stables, and dirty methods of milking. All milk tests are made with a Babcock Milk Tester, and were made
two or three times last year.

Mayor Rutan informed the council that the Board of Health had taken up the milk question and intended to deal with it thoroughly.

Mayor Rutan requested the Printing and By-Laws Committee to bring before the council a draft by-law regarding the regulation of traffic, also in reference to cab fares.

Moved by Reeve Osborne, and seconded by Coun. Paul, the

On Thursday of this week we commemorated Paardeberg Day, being one of the special days observed by the Daughters of the Empire, the memory of which causes a thrill of pride in the heart of every Canadian!

Mrs. George A. White of Trenton,

well fitted.

The donations from our tea and this special meeting were devoted to the fund for the 2nd Motor Ambulance from Lennox and Addington,
which the Daughters of the Empire and their Committee are pleased to further in any way in their power.

It may not be generally known that at the beginning of the war, the women of Canada, through the National Executive of the Daughters of the Empire, did "their bit" in regard to furnishing Motor Ambulances, for at that period, they supplied the funds for 20 Motor Ambulances to the British War Office!

Our usual work-meeting will take place every Thursday, and the room will also be open every Saturday afternoon as well until 5.30 o'clock.

FOREST PROTECTION IN CANADA.

According to press reports, Sweden proposes to cut off the export of chemical pulp to Great Britain. Naturally, all eyes are immediately turned to Canada to supply the threatened deficiency.

The Commission of Conservation
has just issued a report on "Forest Protection in Canada, 1913-1914", which is of particular interest in this connection. It contains much information respecting the work of the provincial forest services, and of the federal departments instructed with the care of our forest.

Forest fire protection is assuming a large place in public attention. It is obvious that, if Canada is to continue as a wood-producing country,
she must conserve her resources of this natural product. The report treats exhaustively of the fire protection of forest lands along railway rights-of-way. Through co-operative action, great headway has been made in securing the reduction of forest losses through fires traceable to railway causes.

The forests of British Columbia and on Dominion lands in the West have been dealt with in reports containing the results of special studies conducted by Dr. C. D. Howe and Mr. J. H.
White. The Trent watershed in Ontario, has also received especial attention, in a report of an investigation by Dr. C. D. Howe in the townships of Burleigh and Methuen. This district is important in that, while
of very little value as an agricultural area, it is being repeatedly overrun by forest fires and the little remaining merchantable timber destroyed. It is suggested that the area be placed under the control of the Dominion Forestry Branch for protection from fires, and for reforesta-

FOOD RIOTS IN GERMANY BECOME WIDESPREAD

LONDON—March 5.—A speech made before the Prussian diet by Dr. Karl Liebknecht, the socialist leader, is given in a despatch from Reuter's correspondent at Amsterdam. During the debate on the budget, Dr. Liebknecht is reported to have said it had become an established practice to prohibit mentions of trials resulting from food riots and peace demonstrations with the result that the people had no idea of the widespread increase of these agitations.

Dr. Liebknecht called for statistics of persons who supply war materials to enemies of Germany, asserting that the capitalistic classes, particularly armament manufacturers, were disregarding the prohibition of such sales. He is quoted as follows:

"One member of the Luebeck senate is in prison for having placed his copper mines at the disposition of the Russians. You all know how capitalists are internationally related, especially as regards the armament industry. German soldiers have been killed by guns supplied by the Krupps."

NEW POLICE SUPPRESSION.

Dr. Liebknecht went on to say, according to this despatch, that a new department had been set up at Berlin police headquarters to deal with peace propagandists. He particularly criticized the great number of condemnations before military tribunals, asserting that one person had been sentenced to death, for a poem, and that one of his Austrian colleagues had been condemned to death for a speech made in December, 1914.

The correspondent says there was great disorder during the speech of Dr. Liebknecht, which was finally cut off peremptorily, the budget being passed.

OPENING WEEK IN THE LEGISLATURE

THE IMPORTANT CLAUSE.

In an inconspicuous paragraph in the speech from the throne this year there occurred one of the most important sentences for a long time:—"A bill relating to the prohibition and sale of intoxicating liquor in the province and for submission of same to the electors."

No details of the prohibition or referendum proposal have yet been made public, but the decision is expected to be made soon. There are rumors that a vote on the measure will be given to all Ontario soldiers in England and at the front as well as in the training camps at home.

Rumor, well defined rumor at that, claims a large number of Conservative members of the House to be angered at the Government for committing the party to the prohibition proposal without consulting caucus. It was apparent, almost painfully noticeable indeed, that Premier Hearst's remarks on prohibition were received very coldly, and with little applause from the Government side, although they were vigorously applauded by Mr. Rowell and the Opposition.

WHAT MR. ROWELL SAID.

"I am prepared cordially to support the Government in carrying out the proposals they submit if these proposals are what I understand them to be, as outlined in the speech from the

 the general election of 1914 and their results are as follows:—

June, 1914 Bye-elections
 Hamilton W. C. Maj. 1411 C. Maj. 36
 Dundas C. Maj. 673 C. Maj. 62
 Peel C. Maj. 627 L. Maj. 305

In Hamilton West, therefore, the Government majority was reduced by 1375; in Dundas by 611 and in Peel
 the Government lost the seat with a change of 932. In these three bye-elections, therefore, the change against the Government amounted to 2919, or an average of almost a thousand.

If the slump continues, or if it continues half as much as in those three cases, the Government's majority will be entirely wiped out at the next election, and Mr. Rowell will be in power by a comfortable majority.

ANIMAL SWIMMERS.

The Best of All, Though Not the Swift-est, Is the Polar Bear.

Nearly all animals are better swimmers than man and take to the water
 naturally, while he has to learn to bip-pop himself. The rhinoceros and hippopotamus are wonderful swimmers
 and divers, while the Indian elephant crosses great rivers with heavy loads.
 The elk and the reindeer are first class swimmers. The elk keeps his head above water and crosses directly from bank to bank to avoid turning. The reindeer, on the other hand, turns as often as he likes, keeping his head
 only a little above the surface.

But of all swimmers of all climes the best, though not the swiftest, is the polar bear, who passes half his time
 in the water swimming and diving.
 His swimming power is nothing short of miraculous if it be remembered that the water in the regions he frequents is invariably cold and that cold is normally prohibitive to good swimming.
 There are bears that can swim from forty to fifty kilometers without great effort.

One of the swiftest swimming animals is the squirrel. A sportsman on one occasion, having at hand a squirrel born in captivity, which had never seen water, wanted to see if it could swim and took it with him in a row-boat to the center of a lake. The squirrel turned toward the bank, head and paws above the water, back and tail underneath it, and began to swim
 so rapidly that it was with the greatest difficulty that the man recovered
 it when it reached the shallow water near the land. It is said that even many nonaquatic birds will swim like ducks if an attempt be made to drown
 them.—Pearson's Weekly.

CONSTANTINOPLE FEARS MUTINY OF SOLDIERS

ODESSA, Russia, March 5, via London.—It is reported from Constantinople that Turkish women broke into railway yards whence troop trains were about to leave, shouting protests against sending the men "to go to their death." They threw themselves on the rails in front of the trains.
 The authorities refrained from using force to remove them, these advices say, fearing a mutiny among the soldiers. The men were taken from the cars but later were sent off secretly
 by night.

It is also reported that the Turkish general staff declined to summon before a courtmartial Kianil Pasha, commander of the Turkish forces in the Caucasus, on account of certain disclosures which might be made.
 Consequently the commander will receive an honorable discharge.

TRUTH WAS SUPPRESSED.

These reports say further that the people of Constantinople were led to believe that the German army had achieved a much greater victory at Verdun than was actually gained and that when the facts were ascertained rioting occurred. It is stated German troops suppressed the rioting.

Forty persons are reported to have been killed in the wreck of a passenger train on the Berlin-Constantinople Railway near Nish, Serbia. Investigation showed that rails had been loosened and many arrests have been made.

OPPOSITION OPINION OF THE BUDGET

Finance Minister White's budget is now in the committee stage, where numerous holes are being picked in it. The Finance Minister's proposals fail to meet the Opposition criticism that wealth escapes while at the same time they encounter the resentment of legitimate business, which considers itself overtaxed in proportion to the war profiteers. These considerations naturally keep Sir Thomas busy hopping out of the frying pan into the fire and back again. Already both his ears are burned from overhearing angry remarks.

"Seeing Tom" appears to be a considerable pastime in Canada just now. Every train brings to Ottawa, large, portly men, with big gold watch-chains who are bent on convincing the Finance Minister that any sound system of taxation is based on intelligent exceptions. "Don't do it to me" is their cry, and truth to tell Sir Thomas is not deaf to these appeals from his friends. Signs multiply that he is relenting and that the wind will be appreciably tempered to the short ram before the budget resolutions take their final shape. With everybody trying to use him for his own purposes the Finance Minister feels as promiscuous as a sleeping car tumbler.

No doubt Sir Thomas wonders what is the matter with his budget. He built it to catch votes and it succeeds only in catching hell. He went on the principle that where there's flypaper there are flies, but the flies don't seem to behave according to program. He proposed to cut his garment according to his cloth and then overdid it by stating that he would do it for next to nothing and never press for the bill—posterity was the word he used. Almost in the same breath he announced that he was budgeting for perhaps twenty-two millions more than the Government reckoned to spend because—well, to suggest his real reason, because the taxing was good and a Conservative government always likes to feel that it has money to blow.

This is the budget of the Prodigal Son whose story I never read without thinking of the poor little calf which was sacrificed to give him a good feed. The poor little calf in this case is the Dominion of Canada. So far as the common people are concerned this is a false, fickle-hearted budget. It is really an attempt to feed the poor without giving them anything to eat. It's worse than that—it's a Christian Science trying to cure a Manx cat's candal deficiencies by absent treatment. It does as little as it can for the people with as much noise as possible.

If the Government really wants to help the farmer, why doesn't it, as Mr. Oliver points out, give the prairie provinces the boon of free wheat instead of letting the grain rot on the ground sooner than see it get away from a highly-protected little band of Canadian millers? As a matter of fact it would help the manufacturers of the east if the farmers of the west had more money to buy their products, but this is a Government which does not see that far. For reply we have a gas attack from Arthur Meighen who apprehends that the wheat would lose its ideality south of the line. As if the wheat cared! Do Canadian fish when they swim over the border refuse to accept the price they bring in the American market simply because the money looks different?

So far Mr. Oliver's questions have not been answered—why does this Government persist in the policy of high taxation and restricted trade which nearly sent Canada to the dogs previous to 1896? Why does it slaughter the free wheat resolution by three quarters of its working majority? Why does it overtax when it says it does not need the money? Why has it increased the taxation burden on the Canadian people by seventy-five million dollars in four years—said Canadian people being less numerous

Letter From The Front Received by Chief Barrett

Feb. 4th, 1918.

Dear Fred:—I have been some time answering your letter, in fact, I did not get yours before I came back from the trenches on the 24th Jan. We went up on New Year's eve. We were expecting to be in the trenches for Xmas, but fortunately we were allowed extra grace. Spent a fairly enjoyable Xmas on the whole. Thanks very much for the photos. They are jolly good, only the peak of your cap prevents a clear view of your face. Willie is a strapping boy, isn't he? I say, you must have a duce of a garden. The background of the photo of Mary suggests the tropics, doesn't it? The ones you previously sent must have gone with the great majority. I never received it. It's not surprising, considering everything. It was not too bad in the trenches this time. They were not in a good state considering the weather. You know the usual kind of weather we get in England during the winter; muggy and wet. No doubt you have seen pictures of the Tower Bridge (as it is called) at Loos. We were just in front of that. It's the first near view I ever had of it. We were in reserve last September during the advances. Saw it then. It's a great mining district round about there, nothing but pits. The structure is some way connected with them, how, I could not fathom. It is so prominent because the country round about is so flat and of a chalky nature. One curious fact strikes me connected with the trenches, and that is the sound of the voices of everyone's talk is subdued, and yet every little sentence seems to impress itself on your memory. You know what it's like being in a cave. You notice how peculiar the human voice sounds compared with the open, that's just how it is in the trenches. You hear some little thing said, take no notice of it at the time, and yet hours after you remember it distinctly as if it were just spoken. The majority of the regiment are still up there. Coming out the latter end of this month.

Of course it's not in the trenches all the time. On an average in the winter, it's four days in the front line, same in the second or third and then back behind the line in huts for about the same time, to have a bath and general clean-up. It runs longer periods in the summer. In the beginning of the trench warfare, one infantry regiment did 96 days straight off. Things are so different now, everything cut and dried. Both sides well dug in, and with special trenches made for the artillery. The only excitement is sapping and mining. It's surprising how the engineer officers can judge what distance the enemy have advanced with their saps and what progress they make during 24 hours. They go down into a dug out which generally goes down to a depth of about twenty feet; stick a bayonet into the side, from whence the enemy are sapping; place a flat piece of tin, any description, against the other end, and listen. They can tell near enough how far the sap has reached. Of course when the head of the sap is under a portion of our trench. The trench is cleared for a distance each side, except for a few look-outs—a rather uncomfortable job, not knowing when it might go up. They do not always blow it up directly it is finished, await their opportunity. It's always ready to go up when wanted. A mine was exploded in front of a guns on to it, and just a it up a treat. It was only about 20 to 30 yards in line, and the artillery were four miles back. They direct hits out of 24. Nothing that! When we go to es we generally leave about seven horses. If length of time there is relief. We had very few five killed and about four when I left. Our regiment jolly lucky right from the ment of this campaign.

Recalling my own experience narrow shaves, there is that it stands out more prominently the rest. It happened in July last. I think it was we went up to the assistance Canadians during the first when the Canadians' 1st superior number of German east of Ypres. We had causality during that enemy used those shells blind you. They are full kind of liquid, where this stuff, breaks up in particles, like mist, and eyes are covered, it mauls and smart. I know we bring our eyes with hand any big kind of rag w That was in the early days well provided with difference now. After that lot down, we were moved a down the line in reserve, some fresh trenches and of which there are so slept during the day at night. All went well when we were supposed to on the Sunday at nine was a dull day with a breeze blowing towards had just woke up out of a five o'clock, when a devil machine gun fire started front line trenches, which half a mile in front and We could see an enemy a cling over our front I thought that they must that. We soon detect smell in the air, and the began to assume a greenish hue. We guessed a was happening. They were for the second time. We to go up to the front line men that had been in the came pouring back, cl gasping, falling every were decked out with bits had been soaked in solution. the Canadian people by seventy-five million dollars in four years—said Canadian people being less numerous than they were in 1911 and the country proportionately less prosperous? Why does it go on overtaking instead of cutting off waste and extravagance? Why doesn't it retrench? Why, to instance just one sample case mentioned by Mr. Lemieux, does it have two hundred and fifty Post Office employees in Quebec City when seventy-five were enough in 1911 to do far more business? How long will the Citizens of Canada stay and pay when egress to the United States is so easy? Canada is not like Australia, a marooned island in the southern ocean, or like South Africa, six thousand miles from nowhere. When things become too hard in Canada it is easy enough to get out. The answer to all these questions is found in the famous remark of Nicholson, M.P., a hearty supporter of the Government,—the policy is to "dash along."

Incidentally Verville, the labor member from Montreal, presented a point of view which demands attention. Why, he asked, if this Government is tender toward, the poor man, doesn't it get after the Bread Trust which puts a monopoly price on the staff of life in the big cities. Flour may go up or down, but the price of bread once raised never takes a tumble. Verville's opinion is that the honest, manly way to meet budget deficits is an income tax, intelligently graded to fall heaviest on those best able to pay. He suggests that the Government might make a good beginning by taxing the salaries of the Cabinet Ministers.

These and similar criticisms have thrown a gloom over Finance Minister White's budget. It is not the glittering object it was when it started. The Opposition has taken the shine off it and even the Finance Minister can notice the disfigurements, that he was never any to sure of it was to be seen from his speech which avoided the first personal pronoun of which he is so fond and shared the blame with his colleagues. "We," not "I," was the word. The hard boiled egg which was a noticeable part of his character last session has apparently disappeared from his public utterances.

At the same time the Finance Minister yields none of the essentials of supreme authority. "We" may divide the responsibility of the budget, but "I" exercises its full powers. In other words the Finance Minister is the final arbiter in any adjustment that may be made from time to time. Sir Thomas has an eye to the future. There are higher peaks to climb, notably one peak occupied at present by Premier Borden. Meanwhile, Sir Thomas is determined not to lose any of his old friends no matter how many new ones he may make. There has been a great deal of water lately on Parliament Hill—fire and water—also a great deal of water in the prohibition movement, so it is quite natural that he should listen sympathetically to those who plead that a little water should be left in stocks. It will never do, so they urge, to drain off the whole visible supply. Let the people do what they like, but capital has no wish to go "dry." Besides, as they point out, it isn't really water that saturates stocks. If it's only left long enough it thickens and becomes—gravy. Whereupon Sir Thomas nods his head wisely—he has been brought up on high finance and understands its desires.

There have been no real arguments in favor of the budget, but many distractions. One of these was Sir George Foster's rose-colored sentiments in regard to patronage. Seeing that his is not a spending department he wants patronage abolished. Apparently he is in no hurry. After the war will do—that is to say after patronage has done its best for the profiteers. Meanwhile he has a beautiful abstract passion for fair play which he airs on every occasion. Sometimes it looks like virtue and something like revenge on his red-handed associates who side-tracked him in the Department of Trade and Commerce. Perhaps it is a little of both. At all events Sir George is the Gallo of this party because he cares for none of these things, likewise the Nestor because he is past committing them, a neat combination of old age and philosophy which puts him above mortal frailty. Judge MacKenzie, who is a cynic from Nova Scotia, took a crack at this stained glass attitude of Sir George's by reminding the House that Sir George was an advocate of conscription in Canada and the tawniest old Bourbon of the lot. It sounds reasonable. Some of Sir George's own friends admit that this top-lofty indifference to human error gets their goat. They express the hope that after this war is over and the good old hostilities are resumed in the Green Chamber they will have from Sir George less philosophy and more party support. This world is no place for halos.

EXPECTS GREAT WAR EVENTS IN NEXT HALF YEAR

PARIS, March 6.—Lord Northcliffe, owner of The London Times and other newspapers, who has been inspecting the field of battle at Verdun, has given some of his impressions to The Temps.

"I have been to the front six times," said Lord Northcliffe, "and that which has almost invariably struck me is the splendid health, the excellent equipment and absolute confidence of the French soldier. I have also been impressed by the immense number of men in reserve—they cover miles and miles of ground—and by the quantity, so to speak, without limit of munitions deposited every-where."

"Our correspondents in Germany who find means to send to London each week particularly precise and exact reports, inform us that Germany is now obliged to fight against time and duration. The initiative of the battle of Verdun, engaged during the bad season, proves that the Germans, who have no idea of the unbreakable tenacity of the French soldier, think they will be able to end the war by the capture of some unclassified fortifications at Verdun. Moreover, Douaumont has not, after all, great importance. In brief, according to impressions gathered on the spot, it is only a simple incident in the great battle."

AWAITS GERMAN EXPLOSION.

"In view of the fact that the German stomach is beginning to cry famine as a result of the implacable blockade of the allies, I am awaiting violent explosions of German anguish on land and also on sea during the next six months. I am convinced that the German fleet will before long make a big effort. The British marine knows it and awaits the great day with impatience and anxiety."

"Not having been invaded, England has been long in awakening to the reality of the war, but an old oriental proverb says: 'Beware of the men who are slow to wrath.' The great majority of the British people to-day, especially the women—the people of England, Scotland, Ireland, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa—finally realize fully that to preserve their own liberty and that of the world, the teeth and claws of the Russian tiger must be torn out."

"John Bull and his allies are masters of the sea and will not permit a single German ship to leave the ports of Hamburg and Bremen until Germany has paid the entire price. I believe I know Germany well and I have not the slightest doubt as to the final issue of the war."

BIG NORTH SEA FIGHT BELIEVED TO BE NEAR

LONDON, March 6.—Certain somewhat vague but persistent rumors which have been circulated here for several days by word of mouth regarding the North Sea war zone have created a state of expectancy among Londoners. Style can't be "pressed" into your Clothes

A tailor's goose can put a veneer of style into your clothes—but the beauty that is more than skin deep requires careful, skillful masterly hand tailoring—the kind that goes into made to measure clothes.

There's more hand tailoring employed in a custom made suit than in any other kind — hand tailoring is a time-honored custom method — it gives the

ed that had been blown out of the water and was lying about six miles away, and made for a shelter hedge that was lying just in front of it. There was no shelter to speak of, so he was to hide anywhere he could. He buried his head in the sand, and I felt my mouth with my tongue. I felt a hard lump in the flesh. It turned out to be a fragment of shell, about the size of a Beecham's pill. The fragment moved it about a month later. There were five of us left out of the op. All the remainder were either dead or wounded. I looked at my chum sit up, and saw my chum sit up, and sort of look around and back again. He was simply in a blood. Just as he told her shell fell between him and the matter of about twelve could not stay to see what then as we had to push destination, some redoubts of the second line. The five had there alright and found re of the regiment there I layed down in the bottom trench there, and I thought I got to snuff it. I must have of poisonous fumes forced down, owing to being so near the trench.

How I was not hit I cannot, unless it was my chum who protected me unconsciously, as he was just in front of me. I picked him up after he was just living—died on his back. I have his watch. He had promised it to me, and always joking about each other and we had promised that who should survive should have the watch of the trench that went under, as a keepsake. I did think that it would be like that, though just the war, I suppose. I think that's about my share, as I am aware of. It is reason you never know how long you are. I could go on for days, recalling different things and escapes, but it would be long, but I've just written that you asked. I shall have to leave some one goes on leave, and this letter, as the officer passed it, thinking it might be of much information. Any more I get it away as quick as I might be able to tell you about myself at some other time you would care to hear. I am to finish up as this is the end of the book. Hope you are in good health and that you are not reading too dry. Good-bye present. With best of love, Mary and yourself.

created a state of expectancy among Londoners. This expectancy has been heightened by receipt of despatches from Scandinavia to-day predicting that a battle between British and Russian and German airships is not far distant.

Russian torpedo boats are reported to have been seen near the Island of Oland, Sweden, in the Baltic Sea and half a dozen German submarines have been observed off Oxelsund, on the Baltic to the south of Stockholm.

The general opinion in Scandinavia is said to be that Great Britain and Russia will intercept German sailings to Sweden as soon as the ice has melted. The ice already has partly broken up and thus rendered it easy for forcing. Naval experts have expressed the opinion privately for several days that the Germans are preparing to venture out and that important events are impending. As to whether the British officials believe this, obviously nothing is known.

DESIRE OF ROUMANIA IS TO FIGHT HUNGARY

BUCHAREST, via Berlin, March 3, via London, March 5.—"We would fight Germany with regret; Austria with indifference, and Hungary with the keenest satisfaction," said M. Filipco, leader of the Conservatives and former minister of war, to the correspondent of the Associated Press.

He expressed the opinion that there is no ill-feeling against Germany, and that Austria is disliked solely because it is linked with the Hungarians, who are hated on account of the alleged ill-treatment of the Roumanians living in Transylvania and Banat.

According to the Roumanian press, there are several factors which make for the continued neutrality of the country. These are first, that the Teutonic sympathizers are better organized than the followers of the entente; and, secondly, the long duration of the war has created public apathy. Another deterrent factor has been the expense of mobilization and the later demobilization of nearly the entire army. The cost of living has also increased, some articles having risen in price more than they have in the central power countries.

Collapse of Turkey Believed To Be Near

LONDON, March 7th.—The morning newspapers to-day continue to devote a large amount of space to consideration of the situation in Turkey, where the English correspondents believe a movement for a separate peace is rapidly gaining impetus with the sanction of the Mohammedan priests and other influential personages.

Most of the despatches printed to-day are based on the testimony of refugees, and there is little direct evidence produced in them to sustain the sensational stories sent from Athens, Cairo, Saloniki and other near eastern cities. The Daily Express publishes under the heading "The Break Up of Turkey," a symposium of despatches dealing with the alleged growth of a revolutionary movement in various parts of Turkey.

The Daily News has a similar group of despatches, headed "The Turkish Crisis," dealing particularly with a scarcity of food, rioting and anti-German feeling in Turkish cities.

FRENCH MACHINE GUNS MOW MASSED GERMANS

PARIS, March 4.—The fire of French machine guns and rifles has been pouring death for two days into the ranks of the Germans attacking in mass the Village of Douaumont. The French hold the summit of the knoll which dominates the village from the south. Parts of the town had been taken and retaken repeatedly, and each time that the fortune of battle has changed more dead from the thick masses of German assailants have been added to the piles behind which their surviving comrades have sought brief protection.

REGIMENTS CUT UP

Each time remnants of regiments already cut to pieces, were pushed ahead by other bodies of troops surging on the field of battle, until the ground was strewn with bodies. Eye witnesses assert that nothing at Charleroi, on the Marne, along the Yser or in the Champagne equalled the sacrifices which the troops of the German crown prince already have made for the Village of Douaumont alone in the battle of Verdun. The attack is no longer the subject of speculation whether it is intended for a rectification of the German front or perhaps as a demonstration for the sake of the morale effect upon the people of Germany and neutrals.

It's the opinion in all quarters that the crown prince has determined to pay the price necessary to capture Verdun, if possible drive the French from the right bank of the Meuse, and establish a front along the river if he is unable to pierce the lines and open up the way to Chalons and Paris.

All information thus far, received indicates that the Germans already have paid a very heavy price and that Verdun itself has not yet been shaken. The ultimate cost of the drive is problematical.

PARIS IS CONFIDENT.

Paris remains confident that the Germans will find it impossible to achieve eventual success. This feeling has been made still more pronounced by the recitals of the wounded and of German soldiers. French infantry is disputing every inch of the ground with persistent courage, and last night once more compelled the adversary to suspend efforts, leaving artillery alone to keep up the pressure on the fortress. Whenever the Germans' assault on the French line reached the danger point the blue clad troops leaped forward with fixed bayonets to the strains of the National Battle Hymn. Accounts of this fighting, from French sources, say that more than once the soldiers of the republic got the better of the opponents, pressing back Germans who did not fall under the cold steel.

TWO MILLION SHELLS FIRED BY GERMANS IN FOUR DAYS

PARIS, March 5.—French artillery officers who took part in the battle of Verdun estimate that during the first four days of the struggle, the Germans discharged 2,000,000 shells, most of them heavy calibres. The number of projectiles fired by the French probably was as great.

Nothing like such an expenditure of munitions has been known before, even in the Champagne attack. The whole theory of operations was to pulverize defenses at long range, drive out or kill defenders and then occupy the ground by massed rushes of infantry. The principle of the defense was to search out heavy pieces of the adversary with equally heavy shells, withdraw from demolished first line works and then when those deserted trenches were approached by attacking forces on the run, to catch them with multiplied enfilading artillery and machine gun fire. At times this fire was suddenly suspended and the attackers were engaged in hand-to-hand infantry clashes.

PENROD

by Booth
TARKINGTON

"What?"
"They're so boorjaw. You speak French, of course?"

"Me?"

"We ran over to Paris last year. It's lovely, don't you think? Don't you love the Rue de la Paix?"

Penrod wandered in a labyrinth. This girl seemed to be talking, but her words were dumfounding, and of course there was no way for him to know that he was really listening to her mother. It was his first meeting with one of those grownup little girls, wonderful product of the winter apartment and summer hotel, and Fanchon, an only child, was a star of the brand. He began to feel resentful.

"I suppose," she went on, "I'll find everything here fearfully western. Some nice people called yesterday, though. Do you know the Magsworth Bittses? Auntie says they're charming. Will Roddy be at your party?"

"I guess he will," returned Penrod, finding this intelligible. "The mutt!"

"Really!" Fanchon exclaimed airily. "Aren't you great pals with him?"

"What's 'pals'?"

"Good heavens! Don't you know what it means to say you're 'great pals' with any one? You are an odd child!"

It was too much.

"Oh, bugs!" said Penrod.

This bit of ruffianism had a curious effect. Fanchon looked upon him with sudden favor.

"I like you, Penrod," she said in an odd way, and whatever else there may have been in her manner there certainly was no shyness.

"Oh, bugs!" This repetition may have lacked gallantry, but it was uttered in no very decided tone. Penrod was shaken.

"Yes, I do!" She stepped closer to him, smiling. "Your hair is ever so pretty."

Sailors' parrots swear like mariners, they say, and gay mothers ought to realize that all children are imitative, for as the precocious Fanchon leaned toward Penrod the manner in which she looked into his eyes might have made a thoughtful observer wonder where she had learned her pretty ways.

Penrod was even more confused tuning instruments, squeak of fiddle, croon of cello, a falling triangle ringing and tinkling to the floor, and he turned pale.

Chosen guests began to arrive, while Penrod, suffering from stage fright and perspiration, stood beside his mother, in the "drawing room," to receive them. He greeted unfamiliar acquaintances and intimate fellow criminals with the same frigidity, murmuring "M glad to see y'" to all alike, largely increasing the embarrassment which always prevails at the beginning of children's festivities. His unnatural pomp and circumstance had so thoroughly upset him, in truth, that Marjorie Jones received a distinct shock, now to be related. Dr. Thorpe, the very kind old clergyman who had baptized Penrod, came in for a moment to congratulate the boy and had just moved away when it was Marjorie's turn. In the line of children, to speak to Penrod. She gave him what she considered a forgiving look and, because of the occasion, addressed him in a perfectly courteous manner.

"I wish you many happy returns of the day, Penrod."

"Thank you, sir!" he returned, following Dr. Thorpe with a glassy stare in which there was absolutely no recognition of Marjorie. Then he greeted Maurice Levy, who was next to Marjorie, "M glad to see y'"

Dumfounded, Marjorie turned aside and stood near, observing Penrod with gravity. It was the first great surprise of her life. Customarily she had seemed to place his character somewhere between that of the professional rioter and that of the orang outang. Nevertheless her manner at times just hinted a consciousness that this Caliban was her property, wherefore she stared at him incredulously as his head bobbed up and down in the dancing school bow, greeting his guests. Then she heard an adult voice near her exclaim:

"What an exquisite child!"

Marjorie glanced up—a little consciously, though she was used to it—naturally curious to ascertain who was speaking of her. It was Sam Williams' mother addressing Mrs. Bassett, both being present to help Mrs. Scho-

whose eyes glow with that light always call it indignation.

Roderick Magsworth Bitts, Jr., approached Fanchon when she had made her courtesy to Mrs. Schofield. Fanchon whispered in Roderick's ear also. "Your hair is pretty, Roddy! Don't forget what you said yesterday!"

Roderick likewise blushed.

Maurice Levy, captivated by the newcomer's appearance, pressed close to Roderick.

"Give us an introduction, Roddy?"

Roddy being either reluctant or unable to perform the rite, Fanchon took matters into her own hands and was presently favorably impressed with Maurice, receiving the information that his tie had been brought to him by his papa from Skoone's, whereupon she privately informed him that she liked wavy hair and arranged to dance with him.

Fanchon also thought that sandy hair was attractive, Sam Williams discovered a few minutes later, and so catholic was her taste that a ring of boys quite encircled her before the musicians in the yard struck up their thrilling march, and Mrs. Schofield brought Penrod to escort the lady from out of town to the dancing pavilion.

Headed by this pair, the children sought partners and paraded solemnly out of the front door and round a corner of the house. There they found the gay marquee, the small orchestra seated on the lawn at one side of it and a punch bowl of lemonade inviting attention under a tree. Decorously the small couples stepped upon the platform, one after another, and began to dance.

"It's not much like a children's party in our day," Mrs. Williams said to Penrod's mother. "We'd have been playing Quaker meeting, clap in, clap out or going to Jerusalem, I suppose."

"Yes, or postoffice and drop the handkerchief," said Mrs. Schofield. "Things change so quickly. Imagine asking little Fanchon Gelbraith to play London bridge! Penrod seems to be having a difficult time with her, poor boy. He wasn't a shining light in the dancing class."

However, Penrod's difficulty was not precisely of the kind his mother supposed.

Fanchon was soon showing him a new step, which she taught her next partner in turn, continuing instructions during the dancing. The children crowded the floor, and in the kaleidoscopic jumble of bobbing heads and intermingling figures her extremely different style of motion was unobserved by the older people, who looked on, nodding time benevolently.

Fanchon fascinated girls as well as boys. Many of the former eagerly sought her acquaintance and thronged about her between the dances, when, accepting the deference due a cosmopolitan and an oracle of the mode, she gave demonstrations of the new step to succeeding groups, professing astonishment to find it unknown. It had been "all the go," she explained, at the Long Shore Casino for fully two seasons.

She pronounced very "slow" a "fancy dance" executed during an intermission by Baby Reunsdale and George Bassett, giving it as her opinion that Miss Reunsdale and Mr. Bassett were "dead ones," and she ex-looked into his eyes might have made a thoughtful observer wonder where she had learned her pretty ways.

Penrod was even more confused than he had been by her previous mysteries, but his confusion was of a distinctly pleasant and alluring nature. He wanted more of it. Looking intentionally into another person's eyes is an act unknown to childhood, and Penrod's discovery that it could be done was sensational. He had never thought of looking into the eyes of Marjorie Jones.

Despite all anguish, contumely, tar and Maurice Levy, he still secretly thought of Marjorie, with pathetic constancy, as his "beau," though that is not how he would have spelled it. Marjorie was beautiful; her curls were long and the color of amber; her nose was straight, and her freckles were honest; she was much prettier than this accomplished visitor. But beauty is not all.

"I do!" breathed Fanchon softly. She seemed to him a fairy creature from some rosier world than this. So humble is the human heart it glorifies and makes glamorous almost any poor thing that says to it, "I like you!"

Penrod was enslaved. He swallowed, coughed, scratched the back of his neck and said disjointedly:

"Well—I don't care—if you want to. I just as soon."

"We'll dance together," said Fanchon, "at your party."

"I guess so. I just as soon."

"Don't you want to, Penrod?"

"Well, I'm willing to."

"No. Say you want to!"

"Well—"

He used his toe as a gimlet, boring into the ground, his wide open eyes staring with intense vacancy at a button on his sleeve. His mother appeared upon the porch in departure, calling farewells over her shoulder to Mrs. Gelbraith, who stood in the doorway.

"Say it!" whispered Fanchon.

"Well, I just as soon."

She seemed satisfied.

A dancing floor had been laid upon a platform in the yard when Mrs. Schofield and her son arrived at their own abode, and a white and scarlet striped canopy was in process of erection overhead to shelter the dancers from the sun. Workmen were busy everywhere under the direction of Margaret, and the smitten heart of Penrod began to beat rapidly. All this was for him. He was twelve!

After lunch he underwent an elaborate toilet and murmured not. For the first time in his life he knew the wish to be sandpapered, waxed, and polished to the highest possible degree. And when the operation was over he stood before the mirror in new bloom, feeling encouraged to hope that his resemblance to his father was not so strong as Aunt Sarah seemed to think.

The white gloves upon his hands had a pleasant smell, he found, and as he came down the stairs he had great content in the twinkling of his new dancing slippers. He stepped twice on each step the better to enjoy their effect, and at the same time he deeply inhaled the odor of the gloves. In spite of everything Penrod had his social capacities. Already it is to be perceived that there were in him the makings of a cotillion leader.

Then came from the yard a sound of naturally curious to ascertain who was speaking of her. It was Sam Williams' mother addressing Mrs. Bassett, both being present to help Mrs. Schofield make the festivities festive. "Exquisite!"

Here was a second heavy surprise for Marjorie. They were not looking at her. They were looking with beaming approval at a girl she had never seen, a dark and modish stranger of singularly composed and yet modest aspect. Her downcast eyes, becoming in one thus entering a crowded room, were all that produced the effect of modesty, counteracting something about her which might have seemed too assured. She was very slender, very dainty, and her apparel was disheartening to the other girls. It was of a knowing picturesqueness wholly unfamiliar to them. There was a delicate trace of powder upon the lobe of Fanchon's left ear, and the outlines of her eyelids, if very closely scrutinized, would have revealed successful experimentation with a burned match.

Marjorie's lovely eyes dilated. She learned the meaning of hatred at first sight. Observing the stranger with instinctive suspicion, all at once she seemed, to herself, awkward. Poor Marjorie underwent that experience which hearty, healthy little girls and big girls undergo at one time or another—from heels to head she felt herself, somehow, too thick.

Fanchon leaned close to Penrod and whispered in his ear:

"Don't you forget!" Penrod blushed.

Marjorie saw the blush. Her lovely eyes opened even wider, and in them there began to grow a light. It was the light of indignation—at least people termination by Baby Rennsdale and George Bassett, giving it as her opinion that Miss Rennsdale and Mr. Bassett were "dead ones," and she expressed surprise that the punch bowl contained lemonade and not champagne.

The dancing continued, the new step gaining instantly in popularity, fresh couples adventuring with every number. The word "step" is somewhat misleading, nothing done with the feet being vital to the evolutions introduced by Fanchon. Fanchon's dance came from the orient by a roundabout way.

Pausing in old Spain, taking on a Gallic frankness in gallantry at the Bal Bullier in Paris, combining with a relative from the south seas encountered in San Francisco, flavoring itself with a care free negroid abandon in New Orleans and accumulating, too, something inexpressible from Mexico and South America, it kept throughout its travels to the underworld or to circles where nature is extremely frank and rank, until at last it reached the dives of New York, when it immediately broke out in what is called civilized society.

Thereafter it soon spread in variously modified forms—some of them disinfected—to watering places and thence, carried by hundreds of older male and female Fanchons over the country, being eagerly adopted everywhere and made wholly pure and respectable by the supreme moral axiom that anything is all right if enough people do it.

Everybody was doing it.

Not quite everybody. It was perhaps some test of this dance that earth could furnish no more grotesque sight than that of children doing it.

Earth, assisted by Fanchon, was furnishing this sight at Penrod's party. By the time ice cream and cake arrived about half the guests had either been initiated into the mysteries by Fanchon or were learning by imitation, and the education of the other half was resumed with the dancing when the attendant ladies, unconscious of what was happening, withdrew into the house for tea and a bit of gossip.

"That orchestra's a dead one," Fanchon remarked to Penrod. "We ought to liven them up a little."

She approached the musicians. "Don't you know," she asked the leader, "the 'Slingo Silgo Slide?'"

The leader giggled, nodded, rapped with his bow upon his violin, and Penrod, following Fanchon back upon the dancing floor, blindly brushed with his elbow a solitary little figure standing aloof on the lawn at the edge of the platform.

It was Marjorie.

CHAPTER XXIII.

Over the Fence.

IN no mood to approve of anything introduced by Fanchon she had scornfully refused from the first to dance the new "step" and because of its bonfire popularity found herself neglected in a society where she had reigned as beauty and belle. Faithless Penrod, dazed by the sweeping Fanchon, had utterly forgotten the amber curls. He had not once asked Marjorie to dance. All afternoon the light of indignation had been growing brighter in her eyes, though Maurice Levy's defection to the lady from New

Penrod was out in the yard staring at the empty marquee. The sun was on the horizon line, so far behind the back fence, and a western window of the house blazed in gold unbearable to the eye. His day was nearly over.
He sighed and took from the inside
pocket of his new jacket the "slingshot" Aunt Sarah Crim had given him
that morning.

He snapped the rubbers absently.
They held fast, and his next impulse was entirely irresistible. He found a shapely stone, fitted it to the leather and drew back the ancient catapult for a shot. A sparrow hopped upon a branch between him and the house, and he aimed at the sparrow, but the reflection from the dazzling window struck in his eyes as he loosed the leather.

He missed the sparrow, but not the window. There was a loud crash, and to his horror he caught a glimpse of his father, stricken in midshaving,
ducking a shower of broken glass,
glittering razor flourishing wildly.
Words crashed with the glass, stentorian words, fragmentary, but col-lossal.

Penrod stood petrified, a broken sling in his hand. He could hear his parent's booming descent of the back stairs, instant and furious, and then.

wistful, old, scraggly dog, sat in the grass, gazing seekingly up at him.

The last shaft of sunshine of that day fell graciously and like a blessing
upon the boy sitting on the fence.
Years afterward a quiet sunset would recall to him sometimes the gentle evening of his twelfth birthday and bring him the picture of his boy self sitting in rosy life upon the fence, gazing pensively down upon his wistful, scraggly, little old dog Duke. But something else, surpassing, he would remember of that hour, for in the side street close by a pink skirt flickered
from behind a shade tree to the shelter of the fence. There was a gleam of amber curls, and Penrod started as something like a tiny white wing fluttered by his head, and there came to his ears the sound of a light laugh and of light footsteps departing, the laughter tremulous, the footsteps fleet.

In the grass between Duke's forepaws there lay a white note folded in the shape of a cocked hat, and the sun sent forth a final amazing glory as Penrod opened it and read, "Your my bow."

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

OLDEST DEPARTMENT STORE.

It Has Been Doing Business in Tokyo
Since the Year 1673.

Nearly three and a half centuries ago, or, to be entirely accurate, in the year 1673, there was opened in Tokyo,
the Japanese capital, a retail dry goods
business, which went under the firm name of Yechigoya. In the course of time the store came to be known as the Mitsui Dry Goods Store, which name was retained until 1904, when,
with some changes in organization, it became the Mitsukoshi Company, Ltd.
Throughout its long career the prop-rietorship of this store has been in the famous Mitsui family, where it still remains.

The Mitsukoshi Company, Ltd., is not only the oldest, but is the largest department store in Japan today. It was the first of the Japanese establishments to introduce western methods of doing business and to adopt up to date appliances. In the beginning the store dealt exclusively in cotton and silk goods, but gradually increased its assortment of stock until today it carries every description of merchandise to meet the wants of all classes

"What do you mean?" he demanded,

were saying we were proud of you,
and here you go and throw a rock at me through the window when I'm

"I didn't!" Penrod quavered. "I was shooting at a sparrow, and the sun got in my eyes, and the sling broke!"—

"What sling?"

"This'n."

"Where'd you get that devilish thing?
Don't you know I've forbidden you a thousand times!"—

"It ain't mine," said Penrod. "It's yours."

"What?"

"Yes, sir," said the boy meekly.
"Aunt Sarah Crim gave it to me this morning and told me to give it back to you. She said she took it away from you thirty-five years ago. You killed her hen, she said. She told me some more to tell you, but I've forgotten."

"Oh!" said Mr. Schofield.

He took the broken sling in his hand,
looked at it long and thoughtfully, and he looked longer, and quite as thoughtfully, at Penrod. Then he turned away and walked toward the house.

"I'm sorry, papa," said Penrod.

Mr. Schofield coughed, and as he reached the door called back, but without turning his head.

"Never mind, little boy. A broken window isn't much harm."

When he had gone in Penrod wandered down the yard to the back fence,
climbed upon it and sat in reverie
there.

A slight figure appeared, likewise upon a fence, beyond two neighboring yards.

"Yay, Penrod!" called comrade Sam
Williams.

"Yay!" returned Penrod mechanically.

"I caught Billy Blue Hill!" shouted
Sam, describing retribution in a manner perfectly clear to his friend. "You were mighty lucky to get out of it!"

"I know that!"

"You wouldn't of, if it hadn't been for Marjorie."

"Well, don't I know that?" Penrod
shouted, with heat.

"Well, so long!" called Sam, dropping from his fence, and the friendly voice came then, more faintly, "Many happy returns of the day, Penrod!"

And now a plaintive little whine sounded from below Penrod's feet, and,
looking down, he saw that Duke, his

bow."

THE END.

The Blue of Sapphires.

Star sapphires are generally of a grayish blue tint, and the star is exhibited in its greatest perfection when looked at by the light of the sun or a candle. The sapphire is found of all tints and shades of blue, but the color which approximates to the shade formerly called "bleu de roi" is the most valuable. A really fine sapphire should appear blue by artificial light as well as by day. This stone is found in crystals generally of much larger size than the ruby. The name sapphire is perhaps the only one which runs through all languages with very slight alteration—the Hebrew name sapphir,
the Chalda sapirion, the Greek zaffiros, the Latin sapphirus, etc.

Mississippi Steamboating.

The steamboat age on the Mississippi began about 1821 and flourished for fifty years. As early as 1834 the number of steamboats on the Mississippi
and its tributaries is estimated at 230,
and in 1842 there were 450 vessels, with a value of $25,000,000. But the golden era was from 1848 till the war.
Never did the valley and steamboating prosper more than then. Thousands of bales of cotton were annually shipped to southern markets, and the wharfs of St. Louis and Memphis and Vicksburg and other large ports were stacked with piles of merchandise and lined with scores of steamers.—Travel Mag-

VANISHING GOLD.

What Has Become of All That Precious
Metal That Has Been Mined?

What becomes of gold?

Where is all of that yellow metal
that has been mined?

It is one of the oldest metals in human use. There are gold beads dating back to the stone age. It is an object of almost universal desire. It is proof against almost all the influences which destroy other metals, and it has been mined in enormous quantities. Yet today more than two-thirds of the gold
in use has been dug since 1840.

What becomes of the rest? Where is the gold that set Jason wandering
into the Black sea, that filled the treasuries of Croesus, that paid the terrific tribute which Persian kings assessed against the Punjab? What has happened to the yellow dust and "electrum"—an alloy of gold and silver—which negro traders brought down the Nile to Egypt for 4,000 or 5,000 years?
Ancient gold, like that of modern times, was used for money and for ornaments, but both have disappeared.
Where?

The most enduring of metals and yet the most evanescent, perpetually sought and yet constantly escaping the hands of even the successful seeker—that is gold. What is the reason for its curious elusiveness?—Chicago Journal.

Making the Little Farm Pay

By C. C. BOWSFIELD

Waste and neglect in the average apple orchard are plain evidence of bad farming. An orchard of a single acre if properly managed will give a revenue of $200 or $300 yearly, and besides this it is important to the owner's family. Fruit trees should receive intelligent care.

Orchards are not sprayed and pruned in a systematic way, because this kind of work can be put off, and there is always something else demanding attention. Good farming gives every feature on the place due attention, whether the product is for market or merely for home use. If this be done the fruit in small orchards will be sounder and more uniform than it usually is, the family will get increased benefit from it and revenue will be gained at the rate of at least $200 an acre.

When orchards are neglected the fruit deteriorates in quality, and much of it is allowed to rot on the ground. Even the farmer's family gets only a meager supply. An apple orchard ought to be an object of pride, and if the owner feels that he is too busy to attend to it he should tions which tend to produce strong, fertile germs in the eggs. A daily temperature record should be kept of each machine. The operator can thus compare the temperature at which the machines have been kept. This may prove valuable in future work, especially if the brooder records can be checked back against those of the incubator.

The climate of the central northern states is well suited to the quince, and almost any of the soils that are rich enough to grow good crops of corn, potatoes, or garden stuff would be in rich condition. It may be heavy clay or of a sandy nature, for this tree will flourish in either kind. Plenty of rich and well rotted stable manure will help the soil. The trees may be planted in the spring or fall, the latter being preferred, because the trees get well settled in the ground and start early to grow the next spring. The proper distance apart to set the trees is about twenty feet. They should begin to bear in about five years from the time of planting, but may do so a little earlier if well treated. The Orange and Meech are two of the best early kinds, and Champion and Van Deman are good late ones.

Shelter for Brood Sows.

The brood sow should have a comfortable shelter in winter. Good shelter, preferably in a cot well supplied with straw, will contribute to her well being, and in that lies strength for her offspring. The shelter should be placed a considerable distance from her feeding place in order that she may be compelled to take exercise. Her feed should consist of bulky foods, such as milk, roots, and clover hay, and enough grain to keep her in good condition without causing her to put on fat.

Storing Squashes.

Squashes should be stored in a dry place at a temperature of about 50 degrees. Do not lay more than one deep on shelves.

Hitch For Wire Fence.

There are numerous methods of attaching wire fencing to concrete posts. Some makers place staples or wire loops in the green concrete; others make holes in the posts. The former method is not desirable because the fastener cannot be located exactly where the wire of the fencing will come when the post is set in the ground. Then, too, the fastener will eventually rust or break off and will thus injure the looks of the post. On the other hand, holes through the posts weaken them, and therefore this method is in general unsatisfactory.

The simplest, easiest and cheapest way of fastening a wire fence to a con-

FRUIT TREES SHOULD RECEIVE INTELLIGENT CARE.

MULCHING.

Nitrate of soda can be used with benefit on all crops. It is immediately available and should therefore be only employed in connection with plants in an active stage of growth.

There is far too little mulching done. Small fruit trees and garden crops are given a most favorable opportunity for attaining the highest perfection and development when their roots are covered with a thick mat of leaves, hay or other suitable material.

A good mulch keeps down weeds and renders the soil loose, moist and porous at all times, and that, too, with little labor of cultivation.

HOW TO GROW ALFALFA.

Information Issued by the New York State College of Agriculture.

Alfalfa will grow on almost any type of productive soil if it is well drained and if it is not acid.

In many cases soil must be inoculated with nitrogen gathering bacteria for alfalfa, and this may be done in either of two ways. Soil may be procured from an alfalfa field or a sweet clover patch and applied at the rate of from 200 to 300 pounds an acre to the new field just before sowing. This soil should not be allowed to dry before it is applied. The other method of inoculation is by means of cultures.

Alfalfa should be cut when the new growth from the base of the plant is from one to three inches high, regardless of whether the plant is in bloom or not, so the college authorities state. This new growth starts as the plants reach maturity.

Care should be taken not to use alfalfa seed infested with dodder. Dodder seeds may be removed, it is said, by screening the seed in small quantities through a 20 by 20 mesh sieve made of No. 34 wire. Dodder infested spots in an alfalfa field should be closely mowed, the stubble sprinkled with kerosene, then covered with dry hay and burned.

MATERIALS THAT LAST.

Tile, Brick and Concrete Work Well In Combination.

Taking tile, brick and concrete all together, we have three excellent building materials, and they work well in combination with each other. Concrete is a general favorite for foundations, piers, walks, platforms and things built near the ground. It sets solid and makes an excellent base for most anything, says D. S. Burch in Farm and Fireside.

Tile and brick are used largely for walls and work higher up. All three materials can be re-enforced by rods or wires laid in the joints. And, by the way, barbed wire and woven wire are both good as re-enforcing material. In the special grooves are made to receive re-enforcement. Thus, in making a tile silo you have your hoops just the same as for a wood silo, but they are right in the wall, firmly embedded so they

All farmers and their families should study up on canning methods so that surplus fruit can be saved in the most profitable way. This is equally important with spraying and pruning. Canned apples are in general demand. Cider and cider vinegar are also readily sold at good prices. It is wrong to let good fruit go to waste when it is so greatly needed by the human family.

It is possible to pick up windfalls and make cider of them or sell them to the canning houses. It is still better to can them at home, but in many instances they are allowed to go to waste, although in all cities and villages and often in the open country there are many worthy families, some of them destitute, who would be greatly encouraged and helped by a few bushels or barrels.

The cause of poor hatches of poultry is a much discussed question. A poor hatch is more apt to be due to the condition of the eggs previous to hatching than to incubation, although improper handling of either factor will produce the same results. When eggs fail to hatch an investigation should be made to see if the breeding stock is kept under condi-

Accompanied by pain here and there—extreme nervousness—sleeplessness—maybe faint spells, chills or spasms—all are signals of distress for a woman. She may be growing from girlhood into womanhood—passing from womanhood to motherhood—or later suffering during middle life, which leaves so many wrecks of women. At any or all of these periods of a woman's life she should take a tonic and nerve prescribed for just such cases by a physician of vast experience in the diseases from which women suffer.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has successfully treated more cases in the past 50 years than any other known remedy. It can now be had in sugar-coated tablet form as well as in the liquid. HITCH FOR WIRE FENCE.

crete post is by encircling the post with a wire one size less than the corresponding wire in the fence proper and by twisting this wire around the strand of the fence. This is done in two ways. The fastening wire is placed around the post, twisted upon itself and then to the fence wire, or one end of the fastening wire is twisted around the fence wire, and the free end is then carried around the post and twisted on the other side to the same wire. Either plan is good, but care must be taken to draw the fastening wire tight, or else stock trying to get through the fence may raise or crush down the fencing with their heads. If any trouble is experienced the post should be roughened at the fastening point with a cold chisel.

Expansion and contraction of the fence, due to heat and cold, are cared for by the tension curves or "kinks" in the woven wire fencing, and no fear may be felt in drawing the fastening wires as tight as necessary. Wooden nailing strips should never be imbedded in the posts, for moisture will swell the wood and crack the concrete.

Robbing or Saving the Soil.

The farmer who robs his soil is sawing off the limb upon which he is sitting. Your deed calls for the subsoil as well as the surface soil, and the subsoil is a mine of fertility and a well water if properly utilized.

Lime is the one thing most needed by the average rundown soil. Phosphorus, next to lime, is the mineral plant food probably most needed by the average unproductive soil. Manure is regularly as you harvest. Stable manure is the best form of fertilizer. Where stable manure is not available green manure must be used.

Proper tillage becomes more important as the farm grows older until on "worn out" farms it is a factor of chief importance. Tillage gives the crop more soil surface on which to feed without increasing your taxes, makes existing plant food more available, gives air to the roots, regulates water supply and kills weeds. Where the land lacks natural drainage everything else depends on how thoroughly the soil is ditched or tiled.

The Great Eastern.

The dimensions of the one time world famous Great Eastern were as follows: Length, 692 feet; width, 83 feet; depth, 60 feet; tonnage, 24,000 tons; draft when unloaded, 20 feet; when loaded, 30 feet. She had paddle wheels fifty-six feet in diameter and was also provided with a four bladed screw propeller of twenty-four feet diameter. She had accommodations for 800 first class, 2,000 second class and 1,200 third class passengers, 4,000 in all. Her speed was about eighteen miles an hour. The Great Eastern was finally broken up for old iron in the year 1889 after a checkered career of some thirty-one years.

re-enforcement. Thus, in making a tile silo you have your hoops just the same as for a wood silo, but they are right in the wall, firmly embedded so they can't slip up or down and protected forever from rust. The reason you can conceal the hoops is because tile neither shrinks nor swells, and there would never be any occasion to touch the hoops.

I would hesitate to say that any building is fireproof, but certainly neither concrete, brick nor tile can burn or be greatly harmed, even though all the contents of a building burned up. Brick, for instance, is made by heating clay to 3,000 degrees F. and can't burn any more. Tile and cement are also the direct products of furnace heat hot enough to melt the ordinary metals.

Wood is an excellent building material because it is so easy to handle. You can saw, chisel and shape it any way you want and then fasten it together with nails, screws or bolts. Every town has at least one lumber yard, and wood is easy to get. Cement, brick and tile are harder to procure in some localities and a little more difficult to work with, but when you are all through and you clean off your trowel you feel just a little better satisfied, because what you have built is permanent, fireproof and will need neither painting nor repairs for years to come. You can safely cut down your insurance policies, because there is less to burn up, but the chances are you'll never have a fire.

Provoking a Husband.

A Mohammedan woman cannot of herself separate from her husband without his consent. He may divorce her with a few words spoken by himself. If she is clever, however, she will take him by surprise at an unguarded moment and contrive to do or say something which will make him so angry that before he can exercise sufficient self control to stop himself he has uttered the wished for words.

A plain piece of neckwear is a stock of black moire, taffeta or satin with high tabs in front and small tabs of white organdie resting on these. Striped velvet ribbon is worn as a necklet in rose, turquoise, black, bright green, watermelon pink, gold, old blue and violet.

Soft black satin ribbon six inches wide has pointed ends edged with skunk fur. The ribbon is wound around a high collar and tied in a large bow at the back on one side. A choker of violet faille has a short scarf of the same tied once in front, with a circular turnover at the top, fur edged. Turnover points in front trim high collars. Plaited ruches on top of high collars encircle the head. Panned velvet collars are trimmed with dull silver lace.

Vestees of white pique, plain and plaided silk, glazed feather, bits of ancient embroidery, beading, tapestry, broche, etc., are all used for a waist length vestee. Linen and pique stocks are stiff with an upper effect to turn over and are worn with a stock bow. One has wings at the sides, another has a tiny shelf standing out all around and points at the sides. Another is scalloped wider in front.

Marabou collars and muffs are in brown, gray or white and always trimmed with ribbon. A black maline collar and muff set has black and white ribbon bows centered with large jet buttons.

German Toast.

Materials.—Three eggs, one-half teaspoonful salt, two tablespoonfuls sugar, one cupful milk, six slices stale bread.

Utensils.—Griddle, bowl, dish, egg beater, cup, spoon, knife, shallow dish.

Directions.—Beat eggs slightly; add salt, sugar, milk; strain into shallow dish. Soak bread in mixture; cook on a hot, well greased griddle; brown on one side, turn and brown on other. Serve with sauce made by creaming one-half cupful butter; add one cupful sugar gradually, one egg, well beaten; one teaspoonful vanilla. Just before serving add one-half cupful hot milk.

Mushrooms Stewed.

Take one and a half pints of button mushrooms, clean them, put into an enameled stewpan with three ounces of butter first melted and allowed to brown a little. Stir them gently and shake over a moderate fire in order that the butter may be well distributed over the mushrooms; then add a very little powdered mace or nutmeg with salt, white pepper and cayenne to taste. Cover and cook till done. Serve around or at one side of bread patties.

A BEAUTIFUL NECK.

How to Improve Your Throat Without Slavery to Routine.

We all know that the neck should not be too short; should be smaller at the top than where it joins the chest and shoulders; that the shoulders should be neither too broad and well developed nor too narrow; that the bones of the chest and back should not be buried with flesh.

It is not given to every woman to have a beautiful neck and shoulders and chest. But she can make the most of the trio, as nature gave them to her,

by massage and exercise. And she can do more.

She can care for the skin so carefully, perfecting the texture and coloring, that the form of the neck and chest and shoulders becomes secondary.

Often the skin of the back and chest and shoulders will have small eruptions when the face of the person is clear and free from any such disorder. This is because the clothes cover the body so tightly that the air and sun have no chance to purify the skin beneath as they do the skin of the face.

Frequent baths of sea salt also tend to clear the skin of the neck and bring the blood to the surface, giving it the glow of health. Olive oil or some good cold cream applied to this part of the body keeps the pores open and helps the skin to throw off any secretions which are clogging the pores.

Exercises which stretch the muscles of the back, chest and neck will keep away any superfluous flesh and make the flesh hard and firm.

The neck sometimes gets dark from high and tight collars. For a bleach use the magic of lemon juice diluted one-third with water. Sponge with it and allow to dry on.

Oatmeal is splendid for whitening the skin and may be used freely.

Consider the Stomach.

The evil habit of going too long without food is one from which many people suffer in this present age. Men sit in their offices, women rush about shopping, and both become so absorbed in their respective interests that the period of hunger is allowed to pass and that of fatigue and depression to set in. The worst feature of such cases is that once the second stage is reached the desire for food is gone, and after this treatment of oneself the stomach is too exhausted to digest a meal when taken. This extreme should be avoided. It is only necessary to take a light diet. A glass of milk, a biscuit, will do to prevent after loss of appetite. And yet those who call themselves sensible prefer to ruin their health rather than take the time and trouble to turn into a restaurant and drink a glass of milk.

"What fools these mortals be!"

Pride Taken Down.

If there was one thing more than another that he prided himself on, it was the fit of his clothes.

"I can never get a dress coat really to fit," he said to his partner, as he glanced down at a perfectly made garment, with a hope, of course, that she would at once disclaim the insinuation. "Look at this thing."

"Well, it is atrocious," she said coolly. "But why not save your money and buy one? It is so much cheaper in the long run than hiring."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Police All Ears.

A British ambassador once had occasion to tell a grand vizier of Turkey that he had incontestable proof that there sat at the grand vizier's table every evening a man who reported all that passed to the ambassador of another power the next morning. It is said that the police of Paris and London vie with each other year after year in their claims that no important crime ever goes undiscovered. It was once wittily said of the police of Beirut, under the old regime, that they surpassed those of London and Paris in the fact that they knew of every crime and robbery before it occurred.—Christian Herald.

"You used to be on a Boston car, didn't you?"

"I was employed in that capacity in that city for twelve consecutive months. Seventh! Step lively."

"Ah, I see that you must have had a job in New York as well."

SUNDAY and MONDAY.

March 19 & 20

SPECIAL SUNDAY SERVICES

Rev. Dr. Solomon Cleaver.

MONDAY—Men's Banquet and Jean Val-Jean Lecture.

Wreck at Ernesttown.

A small wreck occurred on the Grand Trunk Railway three miles east of Ernesttown, on Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock, and as a result traffic was held up for one and one half hours. At this point there was a heavy freight going east, when one of the trucks beneath the third car from the caboose broke down, derailing the car. The wrecking crew from Belleville was immediately summoned. The prompt act of the engineer in applying the brakes as soon as he felt the train jerk prevented a more serious accident.

THE BAND CONCERT.

Given in the armouries on Tuesday evening drew a very satisfactory house, nearly every seat being filled. The band fully came up to the expectations. The people of Napanee were led to expect something very fine in band music and Lieut. Stares and his band more than fulfilled their expectations. The encores were generously responded to and fully appreciated. Miss Stares captivated her audience with her sweet voice, and was repeatedly encored, to which she generously responded. The band will probably pay another visit to Napanee shortly and will be assured of a full house.

Church of St. Mary Magdalene.

The Right Reverend E. J. Bidwell D.D., Bishop of Kingston, visited this church on Sunday last and was met by large congregations, especially at the morning service when the church was completely filled. 35 candidates, 21 males and 14 females, were presented by the Vicar for Confirmation, and the number of Communicants was very large. The Bishop preached both morning and evening, his evening sermon being a fine presentation of the grounds for optimism in the present world-crisis. A very appropriate solo was beautifully rendered by Mrs. J. E. Vandusen. The Lenten services were begun on Ash Wednesday, the Rev. L. G. O. Walker preaching a very able sermon at the evening service. The preacher next Wednesday will be the Rev. Canon Armstrong, Rector of Trenton.

We are publishing above this article the print of the new coat of arms, or crest, which the Town Council has adopted for the town of Napanee, and for the benefit of our readers would say that "Napanee" is the Indian name for flour or flour mill and the crest is reproduction of an old Indian flour mill with an arm in the act of grinding the flour in the way the Indians did two hundred years ago. The wreath underneath the figure, you will notice is made up of wheat heads and the outside circle of the crest is wheat seeds. The crest "Sic vos von vobis" signifies "Thus you do not labour for yourselves," which is the proper attitude of all municipal corporations, who are public servants and not labouring for any advantage. The crest has been much admired as being very suitable for the town, illustrating the name "Napanee" and the date you will notice at the bottom of the crest is the date or year in which the first flour mill was built at Napanee, whose existence gave the name to the town or then a village.

The Red Cross Society

The Society gratefully acknowledges the following donations to be applied on the second motor ambulance fund: Camden East Red Cross Society, $80; Selby Red Cross, $50.00; Mrs. Alexander's pupils of Selby school, $15.00; The Red Cross Women Workers of Roblin, $5.00; The Napanee Ladies' Rifle Association, $10.00. The Strathcona Red Cross has sent us $25.00 more. This makes a total from them of $125.00.

The $80.00 received from Camden East was the proceeds of a patriotic dance, given by the following ladies: Mesdames Brien, Osler, W. Hinch and A. Alkenback.

We also acknowledge with thanks generous donations of money from Mrs. C. Wartman, Mrs. James Daly, Miss Emma Hawley and Miss Sadie Ham; and a donation of 12 pairs of socks and a quilt from the Red Cross workers of Roblin.

Our meeting on Saturday was honored by a distinguished guest, the Bishop of Kingston, Dr. Bidwell, who gave an interesting address, which was much appreciated by all present.

The progressive euchre given on Friday last, was a grand success. We are greatly indebted to Mrs. W. S. Herrington, convener, the other members of the woolen committee, and all, who in any way helped to make the party a success.

We also wish to thank the Oddfellows of Argyll Lodge, for the use of their hall free of charge. Mr. W. A. Steacy, Mr. A. Caton, Mrs. Bova and Mr. Pappas, for the loan of tables and chairs, also Mrs. Frank Ford and Mrs. Henry Howard for their services during the evening.

Our room will be open all day Sat.
